D.D. ABBATI DE VAUBRUN,
Doctori Socio Sorbonico, Collegii Hibernorum Parisiis Superiori, &c.

QUOD Patrocinii Collegio Hibernorum indulges, ABBAS ILLUSTRISIME, id Lingua
Hibernica, cujus lexicon tibi dedico, precor, indulgere ne dedigneris. Quâ namque benevolentia populares complecteris meos, eâdem popularium meorum linguam fovere non dubitabis, praesertim cum intellexeris, quæ sit Hibernica Lingua, quantumque conservanda propagandaque religioni utilis dicam sit, an necessaria? Est enim hæc præ ceteris Europa Lin-guis ea, quam commendat antiquitas, ornat sine obscuritate brevitas, energia demum reddit hodiernis Linguis superiorem, Greca antiqua parem. Linguam hanc, tum per se præclaram, tum exponendo in Hiberniâ Evangelio non idoneam modo, sed

maximè necessariam, è tenebris in lucem, è servitute in libertatem vindicabis, ABBAS ILLUSTRISIME, si huic lexico, quantâ fieri potuit curâ, a nobis concinnato, Presidii tui lux af-fulserit. Lexicon hoc tuis suffultum alis solem ipsum intuebitur, oculo, ut aiunt, irretorto, nec non Boreali, quam habitamus, Plaga lucem Evangelii affundet. Vivent in posterum, qui nomen tuum consecrabunt immortalitati, quod, quemadmodum homines Hiber-nos, sic Hibernicam Linguam & facis tuam, & proinde à Ca-tholicâ religione deficere prohibes Vale ABBAS ILLUS-TRISIME, & tibi nobisque diu vive incolumis.

Obtulit addictissimus tibi,

PREFACE.

P R E F A C E.

EVERY Man is naturally inclined to Partiality in favour of his Country, and this Partiality is not only blameless but even commendable when it do's not run into excess and make him unjust to Others. If some Nations have complained of their Neighbours in this Article, none have had more reason than the IRISH to do so in regard of the Injury done to their Language, which, without being understood, has been hitherto cryed down and ridiculed by the ENGLISH in general, and even by some Gentlemen in particular, whose fine Sense and good Manners in other respects have deserved Praise and Imitation.

Of all the dead or living Languages none is more copious and elegant in the Expression, nor is any more harmonious and musical in the Pronunciation than the IRISH, tho' it has been declining these Five Hundred Years past, along with the declining Condition of our Country; whereas most of the modern Tongues of EUROPE have been polishing and refining all that long Series of Time. This is a Circumstance in favour of the IRISH which no other national Tongue can pretend to; and shews that a Language which was so polite, when the ENGLISH Arms first put a Stop to the Progress of it, would have been much more so at present, had it had the like Opportunities of Improvement that the others have met with: Nevertheless, as it is, it will be found inferior to none. Our Authors affirm it to be the old Scythian Language, and upon that Account very well deserves to be rescued from Oblivion.

That a People so naturally ambitious of Honour and so universally covetous of Glory, as several generous BRITISH Historians have described the IRISH to be, can so strangely neglect cultivating and improving a Language of some Thousands of Years standing may seem very surprising to all learned Foreigners, and I believe will do so to the IRISH, themselves, when they recover out of their Error, and take a little time to consider how much they deviate, in this particular, from the Practice and Policy of their Ancestors, and how inexcusable they are for neglecting so sacred a Depositary of the Heroick Atchievements of their Country.

While we were governed by our Monarchs of the MILESIA^N Race, * and particularly in the Times of Paganism, there was not a Kingdom in Europe where Learning was more honoured, or where Princes heaped greater Favours upon learned Men than in IRELAND: Vast Estates and Revenues were settled upon publick Historians, Antiquaries and Poets; their Habitations were Sanctuaries and their Persons were sacred. Such distinguishing Marks of Royal Favour, continued through so long a Series of Ages, to the Professors of Learning, filled IRELAND with an incredible Number of excellent Manuscripts upon all subjects, but the greatest part of them have been since destroyed by our Wars with the DANES and the ENGLISH, as well as our own intestine Quarrels and fatal Dissentions: However, there are still several valuable Pieces to be met with, not only in DUBLIN but even in OXFORD and other Places, some of which are mentioned by those truly generous and learned Authors, Sir James Ware in his Account of the Writers of IRELAND, and Doctor Nickleson, Lord Bishop of London-Derry in his excellent Historical Library. The IRISH Gentry have therefore Opportunities enough, still left, for recovering and preserving their Mother-Language, and, consequently, are without the least Colour of Excuse if they shamefully continue to neglect it.

To give them all the Helps I can, I propose to print several Books in IRISH upon different subjects, in which I have the good Fortune to meet with some learned, publick spirited Countrymen here who have promised me their Assistance, and are generously resolved to join their Labours to mine in carrying on so useful a Work, the Progress of which will depend, in a great Measure, upon the favourable Reception which I hope this Dictionary will meet with, not only from the IRISH themselves, but also from the generous and candid part, of the Inhabitants of GREAT BRITAIN.

A Dictionary in the ENGLISH and IRISH I believe is the First Undertaking of this Nature that has ever been attempted, and in the conduct of it I have taken those laborious and accurate Authors BOYER and BAILY for my Guides; I have followed them as close as my Design would permit; and have omitted nothing in the ENGLISH Part which I thought material; In short, it is as compleat as I could possibly make it, without swelling it with superfluous Phrases and antiquated Words, which would have been but of very little use, and only served to discourage the Sale of it by making the Price too high.

But still, as a Dictionary in a Language so little known, and so unjustly treated by our Neighbours, would be imperfect, and hardly excite the Curiosity of the learned and ingenious Gentlemen of both Nations, without a Grammar to explain the Orthography and Syntax of it, I have added One, abundantly sufficient for that purpose, and also familiarized the IRISH Characters to those of the ENGLISH as much as I durst without departing from the Form of them; so that I hope the perusal of this Book will afford no harsh or unpleasant Amusement.

As to the Errors of the Press I must beg the Indulgence of my Reader, and desire him to make some Allowances for Escapes of such a Nature; especially in a Work under the Hands of a Printer equally ignorant both of the ENGLISH and the IRISH. Those Errors, however, are not many, and even so few of them of any manner of consequence that I thought an Errata entirely needless. There shall be still fewer in the next Volume, beginning with the IRISH, which is now carrying on with as much Expedition as so great a Work will permit.

h is often used in the Irish, tho not counted either vowel or Consonant, in either Irish, Latin, or English, but an aspiration only, and therefore omitted in the foregoing table of Irish letters. It is called in the Irish uaí by others uaíad.

K, Q, W, X, Y, Z, are seldom or never made use of in the Irish except K, which is sometimes written for ca, or caí, Q written for cu, and x, which is taken for ten. When k. is used in the Irish, it is called collaljm, and qis called collun, or cejt.

These seventeen Irish Letters are divided into vowels and consonants, called gudajde agur consoimeada.

The vowels are five in Number viz. a, e, i, o, u, wherof three are pronounced always broad. a, o, u, and two smal, e, i, but more of these vowels after we have describ'd the consonants.

The consonants are twelve. viz. b, c, d, f, g, l, m, n, p, r, s, t, there are three of these consonants sometimes doubled, as nn, ll, ss; nn or ñ, and ss which is called njal,; tho they both be not of the same kind, yet they make a sound as if they were one joyn'd. And some call them a Diphthong, as we shall note hereafter. The said twelve consonants when single, do pronounce severally as is shewed in the foregoing Table, provided they be plain and without an aspiration; which the better to understand, you shall divide them into mutable & immutable. The mutables are such, as by the addition of an h, or by a full point thus (·) set over them, signifying the same, are aspirated; and either alter, or lose intirely the pronunciation, and are nine in number viz. b, c, d, f, g, m, p, r, s, and the immutables which alwayes retain their own sounds severally, are three in number viz. l, n, r.

Some of these mutables, or prime consonants, when an h is added, or a point set over, as it is most common in prints & manuscripts of the four last centurys, become other consonants, which therefore may be called Secundaris, or Auxiliary Mutes; and others are annihilated, or intirely suppressed. The force, or pronunciation of each Secondary Mute is so different from the prime, that it requires a further Explanation.

When b, or m, is aspirated, each pronounce as. v. in the latin, yet the mh or m̃ sounds smother, than the bh or b̃ as.

bhíj	power.	mo bhíj	my power.
bhion	sorrow.	mo bhion	my sorrow.
bhíj	victuals.	mo bhíj	my victuals.
míaj	desire.	mo míaj	my desire.
míaj	sea.	don míaj	to the sea.
míaj	share.	do míaj	your share.

When. c. is aspirated, it pronounceth hoarse & guttural, as ceann head, mo-ceann my head, &c.

When any of the broad vowels a, o, u, goes before ch, or c̃ in the later end of a word, then the c is to be pronounced as the English gh in the word Fought as.

mac	out.
each	horse, or steed.
clac	stone.
lac	lake.
luc	mouse.

The same is to be observed when any vowel broad, or smal goes before it in the midst of a word, as.

bacall	crozier.
oíche joineach	misbeliever.
doíad	twenty.
tríocad	thirty.
Qqqqij

But when a small vowel, and Especially an y comes before it in the termination, the h only is pronounced as ejch horses, is pronounced as if written ejh.

When o or z is aspirated in the beginning of a word, or in the initial of the second part of a compound, each do pronounce as y in the English. Exemple.

Donchað	Donogh.
ðvne	man.
znjom	action.
zajrzdæc	champion.

Thus aspirated.

aðonchað	ô Donogh.
aðvne	ô man.
moznjom	my action.
azajrzdðjz	ô champion.

In the compound called coimiceantail thus.

ðeazðvne	a good man.
ðvðeud	black teeth.
ðmojcznjom	bad action.
zealznuað	white cheek.

But when o or z aspirated falls in the body, or later end of a word it hardly bears any sound, but divides the syllables, or closeth the word. Ex.

noza	choice.
moða	a slave or workman, a labourer.
tnuað	lean, pittyfull.
buad	victory.

When γ is aspirated it is intirely mortified, and it is the following vowel carries the sound; notwithstanding the γ must not be omitted, for it maintains the primitive sense of the word. As a γjn γejl you liberal man.

When γ or τ is aspirated, each do pronounce as. h Ex.

ταοð	side	moτaοð	myside.
γñl	eye.	moγñl	myeye.

All words whose initial letters are mute consonants, require they should be alwayes written, and never admit of any of these secondary ones, neither can any word in such an order ever begin with an h as initial.

The letter l when an initial, or joyned with another consonant in the body of a word, or in the later end, is pronounced as if double, as long a ship; na colna of the body, Domnað Daniel, &c. but it is better learned by the ear, than by any description that can be given of its pronunciation. When it comes in the body of a word with a vowel on each side, it is pronounced as in the latin, as Solan Salomon; γleað dropping &c. the letter n when an initial, or when immediatly it follows γ, o or l, is to be pronounced as double, as njam a gleam; γneacta snow; ceaðna the same; zejnjam a white gloss &c. But n being placed between two vowels, or in the later end of a word, pronounces as single in the latin. As ðonæn an unlucky man; ðjomaojn idle, &c.

Likewise the letter n when an initial, or immediately subsequent to an initial γ, is to be pronounced as if double, as Rjz-nuað a redhaired king, γñðn a Nose &c.

The Poets divide these consonants in to seven sorts or classes; the first called heavy, and are 3. viz. b, o, z, the second contains seven light consonants, which the Irish call conγojneaða éa ðroma and are these b, o, z, m, l, n, γ, the third contains five robust, called conγojneaða teanna, as ll, nn, mm, tt, zz, which, last is called in Irish njatal. The fourth contains three hard consonants, called conyojneadā cnuadā, as c, p, τ, the fifth contains five rough consonants, called conyojneadā ḡarba, as ch, ḡh, ph, ḡh, th, the sixth contains but one weak, called laḡ, as ḡ. The seventh one barren, call'd amh, as ḡ.

When a substantive ending in ll or nn, is changed into an Adjective, it loseth the last letter, and is transposed into the body of the word, as ablaḡ, of, or belonging to apples; from aball an apple; ajbneac, of, or belonging to Rivers, from abajñ a River, &c.

In the Irish Manuscripts of the first Class for Antiquity, these we call here secundaries, or Auxiliaries, have no mark of distinction above them, neither is the h added to any of them, except where it was also usual in the Latin; so that the studious in the Antiquities of this Kingdom, must in such Books, or old Manuscripts of Antiquity pronounce b either as b or ḡ or v Consonant, as the sense shall guide; and so of the rest of the mutable Consonants.

THE SECOND CHAPTER.

Ḃn dāra cājbjōl.

Of the Influence of Consonants upon each other.

THese Influences are of two sorts, as Eclipsis, called in Irish ḡmōjō, ḡad; and Suppression, called cādā.

Eclipsis is, when a primary, possessive, or radical initial Consonant is by some other intervening Consonant quite extinguished, or annihilated, as to its sound, or pronunciation, as ānḡcjal, our wit; where the radical, or possessive c in the word cjal, is extinguish'd by the ḡ immediatly preceding.

There are seven Consonants that suffer Eclipsis, or ḡmōjōḡad viz. b, c, d, ḡ, p, ḡ, τ, and are thus disposed.

b		m
c		ḡ
d		n
ḡ		ḡ
ḡ	eclips'd by	d	as ḡ		m
p		τ
ḡ		b
τ		τ
		d

an mbeul	our mouth.
aḡcāt	in Battle.
an ndānaḡ	our boldness.
an ḡḡeapān	our land.
dḡeojl	your flesh.
mḡeap	my husband.
τḡeojl	thy flesh.
an bḡeapān	our pen.
an τḡlat	the rod.
an dḡeḡne	our fire.

When cc are thus written in the beginning of a word, both do pronounce as ḡ; but the last c maintains the sense, or signification of the word, as an cca-ḡajō our friend, &c.

When ττ are thus written in the beginning of a word, they both pronounce as d; but the last τ maintains the signification, as an ττlob our side, &c.

Besides the former initial Eclipsis, there is another sort, called the Eclipsis of compounds, which the Irish Grammarians call bāḡad conyojneadā, viz. The drowning or Extinction of Consonants. And it happens when two Consonants meeting in the midst of a compound word, so extinguish, or annihilate one another, that they become one consonant, or at least do allow but the sound or pronunciation of one.

When b & b meet immediately in a compound word, so that one b terminates the one part, and the second b begins the second part of the compound, whether they be aspirated or not, they make but one b, as to sound or pronunciation, without aspiration; as rneab a stream, and bonb violent, being joyned together, make, and pronounce rneabonb or rneabbonb.

When τ and τ do meet after the same manner, they are pronounced as if one τ, as when bpat an out side garment, and τnyn dry, come in a compound, they both pronounce one, as bpatnyn or bpatτnyn. Many examples of this kind might be given, but I think this is enough to the ingenious.

Observe that the consonant thus drowned or Eclipsed must not be omitted in print or manuscript; for otherwise a great confusion would happen, and the true sense and meaning of the word could not be well understood. And so in all Eclipsis, suppressions, &c.

Suppression called εαυαυ, the other kind of influence which one consonant hath over the other, is when a secondary mute is deprived of the force of its Auxiliary h, and thereby restored to its own genuine, and radical pronunciation, as if it had not been aspirated. Such a suppression of an aspiration, is done by another consonant of the same kind, or by one that is near akin, which consonant aspirated, when joyned immediately to it in the same word, or in the next adjoining, as zonta wounded; beandub a black woman; where τ by the n preceding in the same word, & υ by the n immediately preceding in the other word, are preserv'd as if they had been without any aspiration; and therefore are to be pronounced zonta, beandub, this rule is little worth though Common with grammarians.

Consonants of the same kind capable of Aspiration, if placed immediately after another in divers words; the first of them, whether aspirated, or not, suppresseth the Aspiration of the other. And b, m, p, do defend & keep one another mutually from an Aspiration. So likewise c & z, as also υ & τ.

The Derivatives of words are diligently to be dived into; for there are some consonants, which differ little, or nothing in the sound, as z, c, and τ, υ, and to have a distinct knowledge of those. it is necessary to have a recourse to the Root & fountain from which the words is derived; and if in the Root it has c, in the Derivation it will have z, and if in the Root it has τ, in the Derivation, it will have υ; for there is a certain affinity between c & z, so that they are often mutually converted into one another; as likewise there is between τ & υ. Hence we infer, that because the Substantive Manac a Monk, in the Nominative singular terminates in ch, in the Genitive it must always end in zh. As Nominative Manac, Genitive an manajz of the Monk. And in the Nominative plural na Manajz the Monks. Because Manac from whence Manajz derives ends in ch. A Substantive in the Nominative singular ending in υh, is upon variation changed into τh especially in the Plural Number, but so, that the τh be transposed into the body of the word. Ex. teanzad a tongue, Plural teanzta tongues; tejnead fire, Plural tejnte fires.

A Substantive ending in ll or nn in the Nominative Case, is often deprived of one of them, in the variation, as team poll a Ghurch, or temple ; ḡṡṡe-amplaib in Churches, in the Ablative Plural.

When the Particle an, ḡan, on or don, is placed immediatly before a Noun, whose proper initial is ḡ then a ṡ must be introduced before that ḡ, and the ḡ be deprived of its sound ; but retained alwayes in the writing, least the omitting of it should render the word obscure. As an ṡḡḡl the eye ; don ṡḡḡl to the eye ; an ṡḡubājlce the vertue ; ḡn ṡḡubājlce from the vertue, &c.

THE THIRD CHAPTER.

An ṡḡeay caibjōjl.

Of the vowels, and their Nature, quantity, pronunciation & Orthography.

Now we shall treat of the Nature of the five vowels, called by the Irish ḡuṡaḡḡe. i. e. sounds ; their quantities, and how they are to be pronounc'd severally in the Irish Language ; and they are as followeth, a, e, i, o, u, wherof three are broad a, o, u, & two small, e, i, as is said in the begining of the first Chapter. Observe that these vowels are always of a short quantity when without the accent or stroke.

From these five vowels, being joyned, or united together in sundry wayes, do arise thirteen Dipthongs, & five Triptongs. The Dipthongs are so called from having two vowels in one Syllable, and are call'd by the Irish ṡe-āḡḡoḡḡaṡa, and are as followeth ao, ae, aj, eo, eu, ja, ju, jo, eo, ra, uj, oj. The five Triptongs called by the Irish ṡḡe-āḡḡo, ḡḡaṡa, having three vowels in a Syllable, are these aoj, eoj, jaḡ, juḡ, uaḡ.

The Irish Grammarians do distinguish these Dipthongs and Triptongs by Names taken from the leading vowels of each Class ; Amāḡeoḡll, eabāḡa, ḡḡḡn-ḡḡe, ḡḡe-āḡa, & Oḡḡ, as we should call in English, the four that begin with a, Apthongs ; those that begin with e, Epthongs ; those that begin with i, Ipthongs ; those that begin with u, Upthongs ; and the one beginning with o, Opthong.

These terms of Art, and the initial of each Class, are to be understood by these two following Irish verses.

Cheḡṡḡe haḡamāḡeoḡll ḡḡoḡṡṡan aḡ,
eoḡḡ eabāḡa ḡḡḡ ḡo eoḡṡṡe aḡ,
ēḡḡ ḡḡḡḡḡ ḡḡḡ an ḡḡḡ,
ṡḡḡ ḡḡḡe-āḡa, ḡḡ ḡḡḡ na ḡḡḡḡḡ.
e, aṡṡḡḡ ḡḡḡ eabāḡ aḡ,
i, aṡṡḡḡ ḡḡḡ ḡḡḡ ḡḡḡḡḡ.
u, aṡṡḡḡ ḡḡḡ ḡḡḡ ḡḡḡ.
a, aṡṡḡḡ ḡḡḡ Amāḡeoḡll.

The four Apthongs na ēḡṡḡe haḡamāḡeoḡll.

ao, maoḡ, a Sergeant, ḡaoḡ a Carpenter. long ḡaḡa.

aoj, maojḡ, Sergeants ḡaoḡḡ, Carpenters. long ḡaḡa.

ae, ḡae, the moon, eoṡṡae, county. long ḡaḡa.

aj, ḡajḡ, an Oak, ḡajl a Pig-flye, or Ring. short ḡe-āḡḡ.

The five Epthongs na eoḡḡ eabāḡa.

ea, bean, a Woman, ḡe-āḡ a man. short ḡe-āḡḡ.

eo, beol, mouth long ḡaḡa. ṡeoḡ drink short ḡe-āḡḡ.

eoj, beojl, mouths, eoḡl of musick. long ḡaḡa.

eu, beul, mouth ḡe-āḡḡ grass. long ḡaḡa.

ej, ḡejḡ, tallow, eoḡl conceal. short ḡe-āḡḡ.

The five Ipthongs na éóǵ ɣǵɿn.

ɣa, ɣljab. a mountain, cljab a basket.
long ɣada.

ɣaɿ, ɣlajǵ, a deer, lajǵ a Phisician.
long ɣada.

ɣu, ɣɣuɿ, a kinswoman, ɣɣuɿ three,
sometimes long, & sometimes short.

ɣɿ, Sɣɿn, the River Sure, ɣɿn silent.
long ɣada.

ɣo, mɣon, small, ɣɣon a man. short ɣeapɿ.

The three Upthongs na tɿɿ hɿleapɿ.

ua, cuapɿ, an harbour. buapɿ lasting.
long ɣada.

uaɿ, ɣuaɿn, a Poem, uaɿn an hour.
long. ɣada.

uɿ, ɣɿl, blood, ɣɿl, a flye. short ɣeapɿ.

The Opthong an óɿn.

oɿ, coɿn, a crime, toɿl the Will. short ɣeapɿ.

The long, and short quantities of the Dipthongs and Tripthongs, as they are noted above, must be alwayes observed by the learner; but When the long stroke thus (/) comes over any single vowel,
or Dipthong naturally short, the syllable
Where any or either of them, are so mar-k'd With the said long accent or stroke shall be pronounced long, as bāɣ Death;
ɣóɣ Rose flower; ɣóɣ two; ceɿɣ a young Pig; ɣɿn secret; ɣǵeal a story; ceɿn
Wax; ɣɣon a Comb; coɿn justice.

Here the learner is to understand the power of the long accent set over any single vowel, or Dipthong short of Nature, and the same accent is to be observed in
all such syllables as it governs.

From the Enumeration of the vowels,

Dipthongs & Tripthongs, it follows that the vowel termination of all the Words in the Irish language, are but these 22.
following.

—	a , lā ,	a Day.
—	ea , ɣeapɿ ,	a man.
—	ja , ɣjapɿ ,	black.
—	ua , ɣuapɿ ,	cold.
—	e , ɣne ,	a kind.
In	ae , lae ,	of the Day.
—	ɿ , nɿ ,	not.
—	aj , caɿl ,	quality.
—	jaɿ , lajǵ ,	a Phisician.
—	eoɿ , ɣeoɿl ,	flesh.
—	ej , ceɿn ,	Wax.
—	ɣuɿ , ɣɣɿn ,	silent.
—	oɿ , coɿn ,	justice.
—	eu , ɣeuɿ ,	a jewel.
—	ɿ , mɿn ,	the sea.
—	uaɿ , uaɿn ,	an hour.
In	o , clóɿ ,	print.
—	ao , caol ,	slender.
—	eo , ceol ,	musick.
—	ɣo , ɣon ,	fondness.
—	ɣu , ɣlɣe ,	wet.
—	u , luɿ ,	a mouse.

The Modern make no use of au, je,
oe, ue, or uo, tho the Ancients had them
all in use, as We find in the old Books of Antiquity.

No vowel is to be doubled in any one syllable in this language, as ee, 7c.

In Words of two, ore more syllables,
regard ought to be had to the correspondence of the vowels; for When the last vowel of the former syllable is broad, the first vowel of the following syllable must be broad also; and When a smal vowel comes last of the former syllable, the subsequent syllable must begin With a smal vowel as ɣune, (Wrong) a man, and ɣɿ.

ne, (right) are not alike; for you shall place an j before the n in the first syllable, to agree With e, the next immediate small vowel, in the following syllable. And this Rule is to be observed When two Words are to be united, to make a compound: the first vowel of the second Word is to be alwayes regarded; for if that be abroad vowel, the last of the leading Word must be broad. As the first vowel in geal white, is small, and the vowel a in lām an hand is broad; When therefore these two Words are to be united to make both one compound Word, an j must be added after the a in lām, that it may correspond With the subsequent e in the other Word When joyn'd; for We must not Write lāmgeal but lāmjgeal White handed. So the j in γḡl an eye, must be taken away if you would joyn it With zorm blew, thus γḡlzorm a blew eye: but if you joyn γḡl, to geal, it remains right; and observe that the former syllable, or word is alwayes to be regulated by the later.

There are three quantities in the Irish language, long, short & middle, the long is when the long accent or stroke comes over a vowel or a Dipthong short by nature. Ex. mór great ḡeān a drop or tear, the short is when the vowel or Dipthong short of nature has no accent or long stroke. Ex. top a shrub, meān quick or lively, and the middle quantity. Ex. toñ a wave, com odd or crane, māll, flow.

This middle quantity is peculiar onely to ll, nn, mm or nn̄ for tho this last be not a double consonant but two link'd together, (as I said before) yet it sounds long, or rather middling in the later end of any syllable as long a ship.

The vowel a in the first syllable of any Word and in all long syllables, is to be pronounced plainly as talām earth, leā- nān a concubine: but if it happens in the middle or end of a word (provided the syllable be not long) it is to be pronounced obscurely; so that its sound can hardly be distinguish'd from that of o or u. As in this word boḡa a bow. The vowels j & e short, in the middle, or end of a word, do sound much alike; but in long syllables, as also in the beginning of a word, each of them is pronounced plainly in its own proper sound. Every middle syllable, or the last of every polysyllable word, or a single broad vowel, provided a consonant does not follow, & the syllable be not long, may be indifferently written by a, o, or u, as bneātnuḡaḡ, bneātnoḡaḡ, bneātnaḡaḡ looking or beholding. Except compounds, in which the second word retains still its first syllable unalter'd, as if it had not been in a compound; for we do not write teāñbaḡaḡ or teāñbuḡaḡ, for teāñboḡaḡ a straight bow.

If a dipthong, not long of nature, and beginning with a broad vowel be found in the later end or middle of a word of more than one syllable it may be written indifferently with aj, oj, or uj Ex. ḡeācaḡ, ḡeācoḡ, ḡeācuḡ they bow or bend bolḡaḡne, bolḡoḡne, bolḡuḡne. A Cryer; but if the first vowel of the dipthong be small it may be written indifferently with jo, eo or ju. Ex. Cḡnḡneāḡaḡ, cḡnḡjoḡaḡ, cḡnḡjuḡaḡ gathering. If the word wherein this dipthong is found ends in a single small vowel it may be equally writ with e. or j. Ex. ḡaḡlḡe, ḡaḡlj welcome.

A vowel is often annihilated, or extinguish'd in the Irish, not onely as to its sound, but also in writing, first in the pronouncing of mo, mu, ma, the a, o, or u, is extinguished or annihilated, when the following word begins in a vowel;

and the consonant m is immediately joy-ned to the initial vowel of the following word, as mēadan my face; & not mo
ēadan muī my breast; and not mo uī.
Likewise it is to be extinguish'd before words begining with γ, as mγēarōz my beard; mγear my husband: and not mo γēarōz mo γear. The same is to be observ'd in the Preposition do, as Dēa- mond to Edmond, oγion to a man. When do is a Pronoun, the o is chang'd into τ,
as teādan your face; τγear your husband.
Beware you never write heādan or any such; as the unskillfull often do; but more of this hereafter. Likewise the vowel a, in the Article an, when any of these Prepositions, o, do, γo or γα, immediatly goes before, it is extinguish'd or annihilated, for its not proper to speak or write ō an baile from the town do an ārt to the place; nor γō, nor γα an ccojll
under the wood; but ōn baile, or ōnm baile
ōn ārt, don baile, don ārt, γōn ccojll, γān ccojll.

m and o in the Pronouns mo and do,
their vowels being extinguish'd, do joyn
immediatly to their precedent Prepositions as amlājm, in my hand; ad lājm, in your hand; do lājm, to your hand. But if the Preposition to which the Pronoun
do is joyn'd after that manner, be placed before a word begining with a vowel, or with an γ preceding a vowel, it will change o into τ, as do tēadaē, to your cloaths; But it is otherwise, if the Preposition precedes a Consonant, as do γhl, to your eye. More of this hereafter.

It is very singular in the Irish languague, that it has some Nouns, which consist of single vowels, as a, a hill, or ascent;
it signifies likewise a Carr, or Chariot; e, wretched or miserable. γ, low or shallow; also an Island; and o, which signifies an ear;
but very few I can find of this sort.

THE FOURTH CHAPTER.

An ceatnamad Caibjōl.

Of the Parts of Speech, & first of the Article.

THe Parts of Speech in the Irish language are eight.

Noun & Art.	Αἰνμ αἰαγ Αἰντjοz al.
Ponoun.	γονajm.
Verb.	bnējtn. judg
Participle.	called na jōbnējtn.
Conjunction.	cojmceanzal.
Preposition.	Rējmuz ad.
Adverb.	jajmbeapla.

the ancients had.

Noun, called.	γocal.
Pron.	jajmbeapla.
Verb.	peapγa.
And here, we shal follow themost skillfull in the langua- ge amongst the modern.

The Ancients called all words besides the Nouns & Verbs jajmbeapla, which is now by the Modern Grammarians appropriated to the Preposition and Adverb. An Article is a word, which by it self signifieth nothing, yet placed before another word, doth determine its signification.

There are several kinds of Articles,
some are Nominals, some verbals, some Adverbials, some Pronominals and some Interrogatives. The Nominal Articles are those that are joyned to Nouns, as a, o, γac & ay, whose chief is an, and which is prefixed, to signifie some thing, as tājmjz an γear, the man came tājmjz an bean, the woman came; not every man or every woman, but a certain person. An is the Article equivalent to the English the; but as the latins have no Article that would answer the Article an, so there is not any in the Irish that answers to the English a; for when the English say, a man came the Expression in Irish is, taimhsear; but, the man came, is, taimhsear an fear.

This Article an adheres to its substantives in all the Cases excepting the Vocative, the Preposition do, o, or some other comes before it; so that, as in the foregoing Chapter observed, the n only remains, as don dhuine, to the man; In the Genitive singular of the Feminine Gender, and in the whole Plural Number of what ever Gender, it makes na, except the vocative as a boue, in the rest it makes an, as in the Nominative singular; by which we see, that this Article an may be declin'd thus.

Cār aaimhsear an fear. the man.	aaim: na fear. the men.
Seineamnac, an fear. of the man.	Sein: na bfeair. of the men.
tabairnac, don fear. to the man.	tabair: dona fear. to the men.
Seairnac, an fear. the man.	Seir: na fear. the men.
Seirnac, a fear. o man.	Seir: a fear. o men.
Seirnac, a fear. from the man.	Seir: a fear. from the men.

The Article o joined to a proper Name in the Genitive Case, makes the Name to be a Surname, as o Neill, o Domnaill &c.

The Article ac each or every, signifies universality, as ac nduine, every man; ac beann, every woman, do ac muid, to each woman.

The Article ar joyn'd to a Noun, signifies an affirmative, and it seems to supply the place of a Copulative, as ar maic an nioire, this thing is good; the said Article is not changed by Cases, but by tenses; for tho' it be ar in the present tense it makes buo in the pretertense; as buo maic an nioire, this thing will be good; if the Consonant m in maic be aspirated thus: buo maic an nioire, it signifies, this thing was good: and so the Aspiration over the m changeth the future into the pretertense. The Negative of the Article ar is ni, in the present and future tense; but in the pretertense ni is changed into nioir, thus: ni maic an nioire, this thing is not good; nio buo maic an nioire, this thing will not be good; nioir maic an nioire this thing was not good; but when the Relative qui, que, quod, is understood in an affirmative preposition, the Article ar may be changed into the future tense in buir, as an te buir fear, he, who will be the better man; likewise the Negative ni upon several occasions is changed into nac, as deirim nac fear, I say it is not better; the affirmative wherof, viz. ar, is express'd, by changing into sur as deirim sur fear, I say it is better, but if it imports the pretertense, nac is to be changed into nar, as deirim nar bfeair, adding a b to the f, deirim nar bfeair, I say it was not better or sur ab bfeair.

There are other Articles call'd verbal, in Irish call'd Aimhsear bhacnamh, which are placed before Verbs, as do, da, ad; a, nġ, na, nac, nap, nacan. Of which some are Negatives, some affirmatives, nġ, nap, nac, na, nacan, are Negatives: do, ad, a, are affirmatives, as do ġnġom, I do; nġ deānām, I do not; do nġēay, I have done; nġ deānāy, I have not done, cōñanc, or ad cōñanc me, I saw, or i have seen; nġ ġacay, I have not seen; adubāyrt, he said; nġ dubāyrt, he did not say; Atām, I am; nġ bġyl, he is not, &c.

R r r r i j

Other Articles are Adverbial, as ġo, and a, the Article ġo, when before an Adjective, makes it an Adverb, as.

ġomayt, well.	ġo cealġac, deceitfully.
ġo holec, ill.	ġo luayt, quickly.
ġo ceayt, justly.	ġo haġneac, circumspectly.

Adverbs of time and place have always the Article An annex'd to them; as.

Anġuġ, to day.	Anblġadna, this year.
Anē, yesterday.	Anoġn, eastwardly.
Amānac, to morrow.	Anġan, westwardly, or from the west.

The Interrogative Articles are An, anba, nap, nacan, &c. The Article an is joyn'd to Verbs in the present & future tense; but in the pretertense, it is sometimes An, sometimes nap, as An mbuaylġe, will he strike? An mbuayleān does he strike? nap buayl did he not strike? An is placed before Nouns, when the question is in the present tense; but if it be in the future tense, it must be anba, and if in the pretertense, nap. To these affirmative Articles do correspond other Negatively interrogative Articles, as nac, nacba, nap, nacan; the Negative nac always corresponds to the affirmative An, as An bġylġe? is he? nac bġyl? is he not? an mbġa? nac bġad? anġaġb? nac ġaġbe? The Negative nacba corresponds to the affirmative anba, as anba mayt? nac bamayt? And the Negative nap or nacan answers to the Affirmative nap; as napbuayl? nacan buayl? There are some Interrogative Articles double; as anba, doba, &c.

There are besides these, other Interrogatives, of which some are enumerated in the following Irish verse. The Ancient Grammarians allow'd but of seven absolute Interrogatives, and are these that follow:

ġadġnġde na bġocal ceay;
Coġn? cāġde? cġe ad? ġ cġoñay?
Cġd? cġa? no cāġt abġyl
ġeay? ġ āġt an ġamāġd.

coġn, when?	cġd, why?
cāġde, wherefore?	cġa, who?
cġe ad, what?	cāġt, nō } where?
cġoñay, how?	cā āġt }

THE FIFTH CHAPTER.

An cġġe ad cāġbġol.

Of the form and figure of Nouns.

A Noun in Irish Anġn, is a part of speech, signifying something changeable in Number & Case. Nouns have their form and figure. The form of a Noun is to be either primitive, or derivative, for all nouns are either the one, or the other. Such nouns are primitives which do not derive from any other word, as cġan, a tree; cloġ; a stone. Such are derivatives, as do derive from some other word, as dġneatay, from dġne aman,

&c. Of the derivative Irish nouns, or words, some do take their derivations from other languages; but are not as frequent in the Irish as in other Idioms: the Irish being almost elegant, independent, copious, and ancient language, which doth not easily admit of mixtures: but the Nouns that take their Derivations from words of the same language, are very many; for Nouns do sometimes derive from verbs, and verbs from Nouns; words thus deriving from other Irish words are of divers sorts: for some are call'd assimilatives or assimilations, in Irish Samluzað or Samlvizea. Others are call'd augmentatives, because they import a multitude, or multiplication, in Irish jomv'zað or jomadamlā. Others are called diminutives; because they signify a minoration or a lessening, in Irish dv'beazað or beazað, or la'zduzað. Others are official or artificial Nouns, signifying some office, art or action. And others are abstract.

Samlv'zað or the assimilative Noun is of three sorts viz. tul Samlv'zað and 3 jomv'amlv'zað, tul Samlv'zhað is so call'd, because it precedes the rest; for tul signifies the front or begining of a thing. This tul Samlv'zað is found, by adding ta or da to the Nominative singular or to the Genitive plural of the primitive word, as beanta & banda Feminine; veanta & veanda Masculine. It is never done of any Genitive plural encreasing above the Nominative, or where there is a transposition of the final consonant, as vo'zlv'be a destroyer, which in the Genitive plural makes vo'zlv'izea. Samluzað amajl is found by adding the word amajl, like to the Genitive plural of the primitive or principal word taking away its final syllable or vowel; and from the addition amajl, it is called Samlv'zað amajl, as veabac amajl hawk like; from Seabac a hawk, and amajl like, coza amajl warlike, from coza war, and amajl; bv'v'be amajl brutish; cojllte amajl woody, or woodlike, from cojll a wood.

3 jomv'amlv'zað is found by adding jn or jon, to the begining of the Genitive singular from whence it is called jomv'amlv'zað, as jn'jn fit for an husband; or marriageable; jomv'na fit for a wife; jonajm fit to bear arms, &c.

Such Derivative Nouns as denote a multitude, and are called jomv'zað. Augmentatives, are found; first, by subtracting the last syllable, viz. jb or ajb from the Dative plural of the principal Noun, and putting ac or ead into its place, as tojn'teac, fertil or fruitful, or abounding in fruit; from the Dative plural tojn'tjb or tojn'tajb, fruit. So eadac, rich in horses; from eadajb, horses, in the Dative plural. Secondly by adding mu or ma to the Nominative singular of the principal word as v'jonmu abounding with wine; from v'jon wine, and mu which denotes plenty, veolmu abounding with flesh, &c.

The diminutive or minorative Nouns, call'd dv'beazað or la'zdv'zað, are of three sorts, or Terminations; for some do end in jn, others in an or ean, and others in oz or eo; the first properly called by the Irish dv'beazað. i. e. despective or diminutive: The second sort are called bv'v'be dv'beazað, kinsfolks or near a kin to the diminutives; and the third Sv'v'be dv'beazað kinswoman, or Relative to the diminutives or despectives. The diminutives of the first sort are found sometimes by adding the syllable or Article jn to the latter end of the Nominative singular of the principal Noun: as v'jnjn, a little man; from vean a man & jn.

which denotes little or small; so be-jn-jn a little woman, from be-an a woman, and jn. Sometimes they are form'd of the Nominative plural and jn, as evll-jn a little nut; from evll a Wood and jn. Sometimes of the Dative plural, by placing jn instead of its last syllable, as tau-jn-jn a little nail; from tau-jn-jb & jn. And sometimes, if the Noun Ends in a short vowel, by subtracting this vowel, jn may be plac'd in its place, and so diminish'd, as caj-ljn, a maid servant or little country Girl; from cajle, a clownish country woman.

The Diminutives that end in an or ean, are chang'd and formed of the last syllable of the principal Noun, in the Dative plural, as ajb, rb or jb, changed into an or ean: as tulcan, a little hill or hillock; from tulcajb hills: trjlljean, a small torch; from trjllrjb torches. The Diminutives that finally end in o3 or eo3, are formed by changing the last syllable of the principal Noun, in the Dative plural into o3 or eo3: as tuylb3 a little leap or jump, from tuyljb a jump or skip and o3. Dvllleo3, a little leaf; from dvlljb, leaves and eo3.

The Official or Artificial Nouns Derivatives are formed by adding ajde, rbde, jde, ajb, ajne, bjn or eo3n, to their principals: as 3avrbde, a thief. from 3avrbde-aj thievings.

rnāmrjde ,	a swimmer.
co3rjde ,	a footman.
ro3lrbde ,	a robber.
brv3ajde ,	a glutton.
real3ajne ,	a hunter.
clājrjeo3n ,	a harper.
drōmad3n ,	a drummer.
veajne ,	a cotner.

From.

rnām ,	swimming.
co3 ,	a foot.
ro3ajl ;	robbery.
brv3 ,	a belly.
real3 ,	hunting.
clājrjeac ,	an harp.
drōma ,	a drum.
vead ,	cotning.

Finally the derivative abstracts; call'd in Irish Annmañā 3e-jne-annacā; are deriv'd in Irish, as well as in latin from their respective concretum. i. e. bu-nv3ar; and do commonly end in da; ta or act: as bandā, effeminate, from be-an a woman dvneata manly from dvne, a man; 3jadact, godliness. from 3jadb, godly. nc.

As for the Figure of Nouns, it is the most universal accident or affection of dictions, according that Irish saying, aj-c3o3ene-anā-3a-an-3ocajl. 3jo3vri i. e. figure, is the general accident of words. Figures of Nouns, are two sorts: one is called 3jo3vri 3onapānac. i. e. figura simplex, a simple or a single figure: the other figura composita, 3jo3vri comc3ojr3-3e, a compound figure. A Noun or Diction of a single figure is that, which is not compounded or made of two, or more words whether significative or not: as lām, an hand; co3, a foot; cean, a head; 3rjan, the sun; a noun of a compound figure is that which is compounded of two or more words: as 3eallām, a whitehand; from 3eal white and lām, an hand. Nouns or Dictions of a compound figure, are of two sorts, the one called com3ocajl, the other 3ne-jm com3ocajl; com3ocajl is a Noun or Diction compounded of two words, each signifying something by it self, and alone, as 3rjanvrit a sunny stream; 3eallām, a whitehand; 3ne-jm com3ocajl is a dition compounded of two words the one by it self signifying nothing, and the other significative by it self seperated from the other: as ḡombuan, indurable or unlasting.

Compounded of.	and.
ḡaḡḡne , a good man.	ḡaḡḡ ḡne .
ḡeḡḡean , a good woman.	ḡeḡḡ ḡean .
cḡmḡeal , as white.	cḡm ḡeal .

There are many of these insignificant words compounded with significative words, but when joyned, they signifie something.

FR. Francis Mulloy calls e'm confignificative particles, and enumerates about thirty, which are as followeth: Am, an, at, com, daḡ, ḡeḡ, ḡmuc, do, ḡj, ear, ead, e, ḡeḡ, ḡo, jn, mḡ, neam, or, pḡm, nem, na, no, ḡo, ḡt, tm, tar, tuaḡ, ur. Observe that you shall add a broad or smal vowel to any of them to agree with the word to which it is to be Joyn'd; for its a general Rule, that the former word of any compound, must be regulated by the later; some of the above are thus compounded.

The particle jn when added in the begining of a word, imports always the thing fit to be done; and bears no other sense.

THE SIXTH CHAPTER.

An ḡeḡḡḡhab cāḡḡmḡl.

Of the Noun, and of its Gender, Number & Case.

Here are two sorts of Nouns, as Substantive, called by the Irish Am ḡubḡanteac; and a Noun Adjective called Am aḡeḡeac. The Substantives are of two sorts, as proper, called ḡleac: Ex. eoḡn, John; common, called Am cḡḡean as eloc, a stone; ean a tree. As a Noun Substantive agreeing with a Verb, makes a speech, so a Noun Adjective can make no perfect speech, unless it be joyn'd implicitly or explicitly to a Substantive with a Verb;

and that the Adjective may agree with the Substantive, they must both be of the same Gender, Number and Case.

The Irish do admit of two Genders onely, viz. The Masculine, which they call féinynnyne, and the Feminine, which is called benynnyne. So that all Nouns, with them, are either Masculine or Feminine; for the Neuter Gender is the same with the Masculine; tho there be some Nouns common to both Genders. To know what Gender any Noun may be of, take the following Rules.

First, all proper Names of men are of the Masculine Gender: as Xoð Hugh; Eon, John, &c. As likewise are all common Names to men alone; especially if they be not Derivative Nouns, provided there be no Exception: as Lloc; a champion, dojnnyneojn, a porter, &c.

2dly. All proper Names of women, are of the Feminine Gender, as Maíne, Mary; Caítríona, Catherin; and likewise all common Names of women alone, are of the same Gender, as bean, a Woman; Sjun, a Kinswoman, &c.

3dly. All proper Names of Kingdoms, Provinces, Countries and Rivers, are of the Feminine Gender: as Eíne, Ireland; Alba, Scotland; bojn, the River Boyne, &c.

4thly. Diminishing derivatives, which end in án, éan, ín or én, are of the Masculine Gender: as enocán, a hillock; tylléan a little torch, &c.

5thly. Derivative Nouns ending in ajde, ajó, ajne, on, eojn, ac or eac, are commonly of the Masculine Gender: as jadóide, yladajde, a Thief or Robber, &c.

6thly. All not ultimately abstract Accidents, & Derivative Nouns, are of the Feminine Gender: as tyle, Whiteness; Dejnne, redness; excepting such as end in eay or ay, as tyneay, sickness; yonay happiness, &c.

7thly. Abstract Nouns or Diminutives terminating in óí or eoí: as tyleóí, a little leaf; tylóbí a little lump or skip, &c.

8thly. All Adjectives which in no wise Abstract, are either Masculine or Feminine, indifferently, as their Substantives require: as jeal, White; mayt, good; tyb, black, &c.

As for the Genders of other Substantives, besides those already spoken of, they are onely to be observ'd by use and practice, being no other wise distinguishable than by the Article an, and by the pronoun e or j, signifying him or her; and he, or she; and in this, the received opinion, use and custom, especially of writers of the best Authority and knowledge in the language, is to be alwayes regarded. Take therefore the following Rules, to know, when any Noun be Masculine, or Feminine by the Article an or by the Pronouns e & j, he & she.

First, the Article an being placed before a Substantive of the Nominative Case, begining with a mutable or Aspirable consonant; if the Noun be of the Feminine Gender, the initial consonant must be alter'd, aspirated or mortified by the Aspirative h; but if the Noun be of the Masculine Gender, the said initial consonant remains in its own Nature: for when we say the Woman, the Expression must be an bean; and when we say, the man, we must say, an yean, &c.

2dly. All Nouns begining with y, as yíl an Eye; ynón, Nose, yljab mountain; an the Article an being placed before any of them, if τ be likewise plac'd before the y, and the y loseth its pronuntiation, then that Noun is of the Feminine Gender; but if the said Noun admits of nd τ before its initial γ, then it is of the Masculine Gender. Hence we conclude, γήλ, γήδον, ηε. to be of the Feminine Gender; because we write, and pronounce αν τγήλ, αν τγήδον, with a τ before the γ, and likewise we conclude γήαδ to be of the Masculine Gender; because we write and express αν γήαδ, αν γεαρ without τ before that γ or γ.

3dly. When the Article αν is placed before a Noun beginning with a consonant, & that the said Article is chang'd into na in the Genitive Case singular, you may lawfully conclude the said Noun to be of the Feminine Gender; but when the said Article αν is not so chang'd, but remains still αν in the Genitive as well as in the Nominative, then the Noun is undoubtedly of the Masculine Gender: as Nominat. αν γεαρ, the man. } Genitive αν γήη, of the man. } Masculine.

Nomin. αν βεαν, the woman. }
Genit. na mnā, of the woman. } Femin.

4thly. When the Article αν is prefixed to a Secondary or Auxiliary consonant, of any Noun Substantive, if the Noun be of the Masculine Gender, that consonant is aspirated in the Genitive Case; but if it be not aspirated in the Genitive, it is of the Feminine Gender: as.

Nominat. αν γεαρ } Masculine, because Genitive αν γήη } it is aspirated in the Genitive, } Genitive,

Nominat. αν εογ } Feminine, because Genitive na coγe } not aspirated in the Genitive. } the Genitive.

5thly. Nouns of the Feminine Gender beginning with a vowel, change αν into na, in the Genitive singular, and require an h for their initial in the same Case: as.

Nom. αν αλαη, the beauty } h, the initial Genitive na halne, of the } in the Ge-beauty. } tive.

6thly. It is the most common distinction of the Genders of Nouns, to observe the difference between ε & ι, he & she. For when ε agrees with the Noun, it is Masculine; and when ι agrees with the Noun, it is Feminine: as ιγ ε μο εεαν, it is my head, Masculine.

ιγ ι μο εογ, it is my foot, Feminine.

This Rule is infallible alwayes, whether the thing signified be male or female: as may be understood by the following Rhyme.

Αγ ι αν ζαβαν, ιγ ε αν τεαχ;
Αγ ι αν ελοα, μαδ με ιολεαχ;
Αγ ι αν εογ, μαδ ειοβρα ειοη,
Αγ ε αν μεανταη, μαδ βοηιοη;

You are to observe, that an Adjective immediately following its Substantive, keep an initial consonant from aspiration, if it be of the Masculine Gender; but admits of an aspiration, if Feminine: as γεαρ μαγτ, a good man; Masculine.

βεαν μαγτ, a good Woman; Feminine.

The Irish Grammarians have two Numbers, singular called uatad: as γεαρ, a man; the plural called iolnad: as γήη, men. And they commonly call the singular Number γήη uatad, and the plural γήη iolnad. The former signifying singularity, .j. λονδαγ, & the latter plurality called iomadamlag.

S s s s

The Cases in the Irish (as in the Latin) are six, according to the most learned of our late Grammarians; tho the Antients allow'd but 4: as

Nominat. Ájnmijzeac.	By the Antients.	Ájnm.
Genitive, Zejneamnac.		Tlojbrejm.
Dative, Tabantac.		Tuipnejm.
Accusat. Zeapānac.		Taclužab
Vocative. Žanmac.		Žajm ma-
Ablative. ŏjbālac.		žallma by
		Clery alone.

I have omitted some opinions both of Antient and Modern Grammarians, touching the Cases, called by the Irish cāra, and shall proceed in the most easy Method I can.

THE SEVENTH CHAPTER.

Án reactmao Caibroj.

Of the Declensions of Nouns.

Án .c. Djoelona.

A Declension, in Irish Djoelona, is an inflection of a Noun by its Numbers and Cases. There are many Declensions; yet I shall follow those Grammarians that reduce them into five, of which here successively. Of all such Nouns as may be declined regularly, some do end in vowels, others in consonants; of such as do end in vowels, some do admit of no change or alteration in the cases of the singular Number; but do admit of an Increase or additional syllable in the plural, and must change in the Dative and Ablative Case plural only. All such are of the first Declension, and thus declined.

EXAMPLE.

Ájnm reactmao.	Ájnm joipnao.
Ájnm : boža.	Ájnm : na boža
a bow.	or božada.
Žejn, an boža.	the bows.
of the bow.	Žejn : na mboža.
Tab : don boža.	da,
to the bow.	Tab : dona boža.
Žeapān : an boža.	ŏjb.
the bow.	Žeap : na boža.
Žan : a boža.	da.
o bow.	Žanam : a boža.
Džobālac : Žan	da.
boža.	Džob : Žan boža.
without a bow.	dajb.

Of this Declension are these that follow, as Čažanna,	Čojne,	Of the Nouns of this Declension, some are Masculine, some Feminine & some common to both.

a lord.	a cauldron.
Manbna,	virze,
an Elegie.	water.
Čnoje,	Čvime,
an heart.	memory.

Second Declension.

Án dana djoelona.

Nouns ending in vowels, changable in the Cases of the singular Number and allowing an Additional consonant in the Dative, are of the second Declension; and if the vowel be broad, it is extenuated, or made small, and sometimes do increase in the Genitive Case.

γῆμῃν ῥατάδ.	γῆμῃν ῖολῃαδ.
Ἀγῆμῃ: δε αρῃνα, the palm of the hand.	Ἀγῆμῃ: να δε αρῃνα, the palms, of the hands.
ζεγῆμῃ: να δε αρῃνῃ- νε.	ζεγῆμῃ: να νδε αρῃνα- να.
ταβῃ: δον δε αρῃ- νῃν.	ταβῃ: δονα δε αρῃνα ναῖβ.
ζε αρῃαν: δε αρῃνα.	ζε αρῃαν: δε αρῃνα- να.
ζαρῃμ: α δε αρῃνα.	ζαρῃμ: α νδε αρῃνα- να.
δῖοβῃ: ζαν δε αρῃ- νῃν.	δῖοβῃ: ζαν νδε αρῃνα- ναῖβ.

Some Nouns of this Declension, do not encrease, nor are extenuated in the Genitive Case singular; and in the plural Number the last consonant or what otherwise would have been the last, is very often transpos'd, or put in the middle. of the word. Ex.

γῆμῃν ῥατάδ.	γῆμῃν ῖολῃαδ.
αγῆμῃ: ῥαλα, a grudge.	αγῆμῃ: να ῥαλτα, the grudges
ζεγῆμῃ: να ῥαλαδ.	ζεγῆμῃ: να βῥαλταδ.
ταβῃ: δον ῥαλαῖβ.	ταβῃ: δονα ῥαλ- ταῖβ.
ζε αρῃαν: ῥαλα.	ζε αρῃαν: ῥαλτα.
ζαρῃμ: α ῥαλα.	ζαρῃμ: α ῥαλτα.
δῖοβῃ: ζαν ῥαλα.	δῖοβῃ: ζαν ῥαλταῖβ.

Some Nouns of this Declension, that have their last vowel broad in the singular Number, have it likewise broad in the plural; as we see in the word ῥαλα in the Nom. singular, and ῥαλτα in the Nom plural; but others have it small in the plural, as μαλα, the eye brow, in the singular; να μαλῖζε, the eye brows, in the plural. Other Nouns of the same Declension that have their last vowel small in the singular, have it likewise small in the plural: as.

αγῆμῃ: ῖλῖζε, a way.	αγῆμῃ: να ῖλῖζε, the ways.
ζεγῆμῃ: να ῖλῖζε.	ζεγῆμῃ: να ῖλῖζεαδ.
ταβῃ: δον τῖλῖζε.	ταβῃ: δονα ῖλῖ- ζῖβ.
ζε αρῃ: αν τῖλῖζε.	ζε αρῃαν: να ῖλῖ- ζε.
ζαρῃμ: α ῖλῖζε.	ζαρῃμ: α ῖλῖζε.
δῖοβῃ: ζαν τῖλῖζε.	δῖοβῃ: ζαν ῖλῖ- ζῖβ.

Such Nouns of this Declension as do transplace their last consonants in the plural Number to the middle; and other Nouns that do not, as κατα a friend, are for the most part of the Feminine Gender; tho' there be few of the Masculine as απα, a servant, δον απαῖδ, to the servant, &c.

The Third Declension. Ἀν 3. Δῖοβῃ ναδ.

Of Nouns ending with a consonant, some have the last syllable of the Nominative small, some broad. Such as have their last vowel broad, and are of the Masculine Gender, and have their Accusatives like the Nominative and also do retain their last syllable broad in the Dative, but in the Genitive is extenuated, are of this Declension: as

γῆμῃν ῥατάδ.	γῆμῃν ῖολῃαδ.
Ἀγῆμῃ: ῥόζῃμα, harvest.	αγῆμῃ: να ῥόζῃμα, the harvests.
ζεγῆμῃ: αν ῥόζῃμα.	ζεγῆμῃ: να βῥόζῃμα.

таб: don xóžmar.	табар: dona xóžmarajb.
Зеара an xóžmar.	Зеаран: xóžmar.
Зарм: a xóžmar.	Зарм: a xóžmar.
Джоб: Зан xóžmar.	Джоб: Зан xóžmarajb.

Such Nouns of this Declension, as have their last vowel long in the Nom. have a double Genitive Case, the one after the foresaid manner, and the other like the Nominative: as

Nom. xóžmar.	But I can not agree
Gen. na xóžmar.	With FR. Mulloy
& an xóžmar.	in this second
	Gen.

Verbal Nouns ending in ožad or ad, have likewise a double Gen. the one after the same manner, & the other with a transposition of the final consonant: as

Nom. Dealožad, separation.
Gen. an dealožite and dealožib.

Other Nouns do transplace their final consonants in the Dative and Ablative plural, by adding jb; from which Dative, the Nom. & Voc. are formed; the other Cases they have as aforesaid: as

ymjn ratad.	ymjn jolrad.
Хјм: manac, a monk.	Хјм: namanažb, the monks.
Зеж: an manajž.	Зеж: na manac.
табар: don manac.	табар: dona manacajb.
Зеаран: manac.	Зеаран manajž.
Зарм: a manajž.	Зарм: a manca.
Джоб: Зан manac.	Джоб: Зан man- cjb.

Other Nouns of the same Declension, do transplace the final consonant in the Nominative plural, of which the rest of the plural Cases are formed: as

ymjn ratad.	ymjn jolrad.
Хјм: torad, fruit.	Хјм: na torite, the fruits.
Зеж: an torajž.	Зеж: na torite.
табар: don torad.	табар: dona toritejb.
Зеаран: torad.	Зеар: torite.
Зарм: a torad.	Зарм: a torite.
Джоб: Зан torad.	Джоб: Зан toritejb.

Other Nouns of this Declension do encrease in all the Cases of the plural Number, except the Genitive, which is like the Nominative singular: as

ymjn ratad.	ymjn jolrad.
Хјм: eanac, a fair.	Хјм: na heanajze, the fairs.
Зеж: an eanajž.	Зеж: na neanac.
табар: don eanac.	табар: dona heanajžjb.
Зеаран: eanac.	Зеаран: an ne a- najze.
Зарм: a eanajž.	Зарм: eanvde.
Джоб: Зан eanac.	Джоб: Зан eanaj- žjb.

Nouns of one syllable belonging to this Declension do sometimes encrease in the Genitive singular: as Nom. ymut, a stream; Gen. an tynota of the stream; and so changeth the u into o. Some do change a into o. And o into u. And in all the monosyllable Nouns, the Nominative plural follows the Genitive singular, The Gen. Dat. & Ablative plural do follow the Nom. singular, and the Accusative and Vocative plural do follow the Dative singular: as.

Аїмї: сїаї, a tree.	Аїмї: на сїоїї, the trees.
Зеїи: аи сїоїї.	Зеїи: на ссїаї.
табар: дои сїої.	табар: дои сїаїаї.
Зеаран: аи сїаї.	Зеаран: на сїоїа.
Зарм: а сїої.	Зарм: а сїоїа.
ѣїоб: Зан сїої.	ѣїоб: Зан сїаїаїаї.

seem to derive from the Nom. singular; by adding the vowel a, to the Nom. Accus. & Vocative, which are all alike; & by adding the syllable ajb to the Dat. & Ablative; the Gen. is like the Nom. singular; as in the forgoing example. And all Nouns of one broad syllable, and of the Feminine Gender, do belong to this Declension: as

нїмїи иаѣаѣ.	нїмїи јолїаѣ.
Аїмї: сої, a foot.	Аїмї: на соїа, the feet.
Зеїи: на соїе.	Зеїи: на ссої.
табар: дои сої.	табар: дои соїаї.
Зеаран: аи сої.	Зеаран: на соїа.
Зарм: а сої.	Зарм: а соїа.
ѣїоб: Зан сої.	ѣїоб: Зан соїаїаї.

Some Monosyllable Nouns do encrease in the Gen. Case, and are extenuated in the Dative, as teach or теаѣ, an house in the Nominat. & in the Genit. аи тоїѣ; Dat. дои таїѣ or тїѣ. Likewise maїѣ, a field Gen. на маїѣ; Dat. дои маїѣ, &c.

The 4th. Declension. Аи 4. Дїоѣїїаѣ.

Nouns that have their final vowels broad, if they be of the Feminine Gender, are extenuated in the Dative Case; and some of e'm do encrease in the Genitive; and are of the 4th. Declension: as

нїмїи иаѣаѣ.	нїмїи јолїаѣ.
Аїмї: јнїѣаи a daughter.	Аїмї: на һнїѣаи, the daughters.
Зеїи: на һнїѣи.	Зеїи: на ннїѣаи.
табар: дои јнїѣи.	табар: дои һнїѣаиаї.
Зеаран: аи јнїѣаи.	Зеаран: на һнїѣаи.
Зарм: а јнїѣаи.	Зарм: а јнїѣаи.
ѣїоб: Зан јнїѣаи.	ѣїоб: Зан јнїѣаиаї.

Other Nouns of this Declension, do transplace their final consonants in the Genitive Case singular, and in all the Cases of the plural number; except the Gen. which is like the Nominative singular; and likewise they have their last vowels small in the Cases of the plural number; except the Genitive, as is manifest in the following example:

нїмїи иаѣаѣ.	нїмїи јолїаѣ.
Аїмї: аїїеар, a beautiful woman.	Аїмї: аїїе, beautiful women.
Зеїи: на һаїїе.	Зеїи: аїїеар.
табар: дои аїїи.	табар: даїїиаї.
Зеаран: аїїеар.	Зеаран: аїїе.
Зарм: а аїїеар.	Зарм: а аїїе.
ѣїоб: Зан аїїи.	ѣїоб: Зан аїїиаї.

Such Nouns as do not onely encrease, but also their last syllable grow broad in the plural Number, in which all Cases

Other nouns of this Declension, have their last vowel broad, & do transplace their final consonants in the genitive case: as

S s s i i i

ḡimh rātāb.	ḡimh iolnāb.
Ḥimh : tulac, a hill.	Ḥimh : natulcāb, the hills.
ḡimh : natulcā.	ḡimh : natulcāb.
tabar : don tulaj.	tabar : dona tulcāb.
ḡimh : an tulac.	ḡimh : natulcāb.
ḡimh : a tulāb.	ḡimh : a tulcāb.
ḡimh : ḡan tulaj.	ḡimh : ḡan tulcāb.

The 5th. Decl. Ḥic ḡeāb ḡoclaonāb.

All Nouns ending in a consonant in the Nominative Case singular, & having their final vowels small, must have the last vowel of their Dative Case likewise small; and all such Nouns are of the 5th. Declension. Some of these Nouns have a double Genitive Case singular; one like the Nominative and the other having its last vowel broad; and in the plural number they encrease in all Cases, as being formed of the Nominative singular, by adding e in the Genitive, Accusative and Vocative, ib in the Dative & Ablative, and ēāb or ēāda in the Genitive plural: as

ḡimh rātāb.	ḡimh iolnāb.
Ḥimh : ḡoḡlvāb, a Robber.	Ḥimh : natḡoḡlvāb, the Robbers.
ḡimh an ḡoḡlvāb.	ḡimh : natḡoḡlvāb, or ḡoḡlvāb.
tabar : don ḡoḡlvāb.	tabar : dona ḡoḡlvāb.
ḡimh : ḡoḡlvāb.	ḡimh : natḡoḡlvāb.
ḡimh : a ḡoḡlvāb.	ḡimh : a ḡoḡlvāb.
ḡimh : ḡan ḡoḡlvāb.	ḡimh : ḡan ḡoḡlvāb.

Some Nouns of this Declension do encrease in the Genitive Case singular, and that by broad vowels; as ḡaḡajl, getting; natḡaḡala; don ḡaḡajl &c. ḡimh, the sea; natḡaḡa; don ḡimh &c. or by an encrease of a small vowel; as lvāb, an herb; natlvāb, donlvāb, &c. other nouns do transplace their final consonants in the Genitive Case singular; as ḡimh, an Island; natḡimh, don ḡimh, &c. and others do transplace their final consonants in the Dative singular, and encrease in the Genitive; as Teamajl, pleasantness or Thara natteamajl; do teamajl, &c.

Some Nouns of one syllable belonging to this Declension, grow broad, and encrease in the Genitive Case singular, as nominative ḡajl an oak; Genitive natḡajl; Dative don ḡajl. Nominative ḡajl a Ring; Genitive natḡajl; Dative don ḡajl; these & such like do transplace their final consonants in the plural Number. As Nominative plural ḡajlḡe, oaks, &c.

Nouns ending in in, do not alter in the singular; but in the plural, they encrease in a small vowel; as Nominative caḡlin a Girl; Genitive ancaḡlin; Dative don caḡlin; Nominative plural caḡlinḡe, Girls, &c.

Adjectives ending in a vowel, do remain unalter'd in both Numbers, in all their Cases, and are to be reduced to the first Declension; as beān tḡomāda, a grave woman, brat vājne, a green vail, &c.

Adjectives ending in a consonant with a broad vowel going before, in the singular Number, being of the masculine gender, belong to the 3d. Declension; but if they be of the Feminine gender, they belong to the fourth; and in the plural Number they differ not, and do encrease by a broad vowel; as Nominative singular yeap cealzac, a deceitful man; Genitive an yjn cealzajb; Dative don yjon cealzac, Nominative plural na yjn cealzaca; &c. namna cealzaca; namban ccealzac; dona mnajb cealzaca, &c.

Adjectives ending in a consonant, and having their last vowel small, belonging to the 5th. Declension, if they be of the masculine gender, do not alter in the sing. Number; but if they be of the Feminine Gender, as likewise in the plural Number of both Genders, they encrease and transplace their final consonants: as Nominative singular yeap yajdbjn, a Rich man; an yjn yajdbjn, don yjon yajdbjn.

Nominative plural na yjn yajdbjne; na byeap yajdbjne; dona yeapajb yajdbjne, &c.

Nominative singular bean yuajne, a pleasant woman; na mnaj yuajne; don mnaj yuajne.

And in the plural na yjn azay namna yuajne, &c. such as do thus encrease, sometimes their last vowel is broad in the plural; as na yjn yuajne; and sometimes small; as lajma mjne cnuajde, soft strong hands.

I can not find any inexceptionable rule for this fifth Declension, but what I gather from the Authority of approv'd Writers.

Some Irish Grammarians, for brevity's sake, do decline the Nouns by 3. Cases onely, viz. by the Nominative Gen. and Dative; for the other three do agree with some of the former in either of the numbers, unless the noun be very Heteroclit and by some authority, will have a particular example.

There are several nouns that have no variation of cases, especially in the singular number; as we shewed in the noun cajljn, dyne yjze, &c.

Adjectives signifying Augmentation or diminution, do form comparisons call'd jomanbajb, the Irish allow of four Degrees of comparison. The Positive, called molaib, no jomolaib; as yojlvmta learned, the augmentative called ajbyjv-jaib, as nojlvmta very learn'd, the comparative called jomanbajb, as njoj yojlvmta more learned, and the superlative called ajnojomnaib, no ajnojomnaib, as njoj nojlvmta most learned. What the Irish Grammarians call augmentative may serve for a superlative its formed by no or na placed before the adjective, the comparative by njoj before the adjective and the superlative by njoj and no before the adjective; admitting of an augmentative.

There are some Adjectives irregularly compared; as moin, great; which in the Comparative makes ay mo, greater; beaz little, which in the Comparative makes ay lvja, lesser; majt, good, makes ay yeapn, better; ole, bad, makes ay meajra, worse; unuyra, easie, makes ay uyra, easier; other Nouns have their Comparatives after two manner of wayes; the one regular, the other irregular; as yada, long, which in the Comparative makes ay yajde, and ay yja, longer; zajn, near, makes ay zajne, and ay neajra, nearer; betwixt the two that are compar'd to one another, we commonly place the Copulative Conjunction jona, than, which is a true sign of a comparison; as ay yeapn peattajn jona pol, Peter is better than Paul; the writers are to take notice not to take, or write na for jona; for na is not a Comparative, but a Negative answering in opposition to the Conjunction azur, as yrajt eojn azay aib, I have neither John or Hugh is good.

THE EIGHT CHAPTER.

Ἀν τοῦτον καὶ τὸν καλὸν.

Of the Pronoun, by the Irish called ῥορᾶνν.

A Pronoun is a part of speech declinable by Number & Case, and importing a person. There are four sorts of Pronouns, viz.

Demonstratives. ἰ. τὰς ἑαυτὰς, as mē, tū, ē, ŷ, ŷo, ŷn, ŷūd, ŷd.

Possessives. ἰ. ῥε αὐτῶν, as mo, do, a, an, ban.

Relatives. ἰ. ὅς ἐστιν, as ῥε, ῥε, &c.

Interrogatives. ἰ. ἥ, ἥ, ἥ, ἥ, ἥ, as in the 4th. Chapter.

To the Pronoun belong. 5. accidents, as Gender, Number, Case, Declension, and Person; called by the Irish ῥορᾶνν, ῥορᾶνν, ῥορᾶνν, ῥορᾶνν, ῥορᾶνν; and some add the sixth, as ῥορᾶνν, called ῥορᾶνν.

The Genders are but two, Masculine & Feminine; and others common to both, the Masculines ῥε, ῥε. The Feminines ῥῆ, ῥῆ. The Numbers are two, as singular mē, tū; plural ŷn, ŷn, ŷn, ŷn, ŷn. The cases are commonly five, Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, and Ablative; for the Pronouns generally have no Vocative Case, excepting the Pronoun tu, their Declensions are three; the first of variable Pronouns; the second of variable in the Dative only; and the third of altogether unvariable. The four first variable Pronouns, viz. mē, tū, ē, ŷ, are of the first Declension. The Possessive Pronouns, mo, do, a, an, ban; are of the second; and the rest of the third Declension.

Note that the Pronoun ῥε, may have a Vocative Case, both in the singular and plural; as ῥε, ῥε, ῥε, ῥε, ῥε; and in the plural ῥε, ῥε.

Here

Here we see that the foresaid Demonstrative Pronouns have no proper Genitive Case ; but instead thereof, they assume a Pronoun possessive in both Numbers. Note that the Preposition which here do govern the Dative and Ablative Case, do so invade the variable Pronouns, in the Dative & Ablative Cases, that they make up but one word or syllable, as the reader shall find out in his way.

The second Declension of Pronouns.

Ἀνδρα δῖοις ὤναδ' ἀν' ὀφθαλμοῖς.

The second Declension contains onely the Pronouns possessives, asmó, do, ar, bu, ba. If we consider the Substantives, to which the aforesaid Pronouns are joy-ned, and agree with, in Number; all, and each of these Pronouns, will be of each Number, both singular & plural; but considering the persons, which the said Pronouns import; the two first may be said to be of the singular Number, the two last of the plural, and the third both singular & plural. You may take this example following for your Rule mo lām.
my hand.

Ἀντ: mo lām, my hand.

Ἐν: mo lājme, of my hand.

ταβαν: dom lājim, to my hand.

Ἐαριαν: mo lām my hand.

δῖοι: om lājim, from my hand; am lājim in my hand; ḡam lājim, under my hand; neam lājim, them lājim, &c.

Ἀντ: mo lāma, my hands.

Ἐν: ma lām, of my hands.

ταβαν: dom lāmajō, to my hands.

Ἐαριαν: mo lāma, my hands.

δῖοι: om lāmajō, from my hands, am lāmajō ḡom lāmab, &c.

Do Declined after the same Example i. e.
tuus, tua, tuum.

Ἀντ: do lām, your hand.

Ἐν: do lājme, of your hand.

ταβαν: do lājim, to your hand.

Ἐαριαν: do lām, your hand.

δῖοι: do lājim, from your hand. ḡad lājim, thead lājim, ḡdo lājim, thead lājim, do lājim.

In all these, the o is turned into a u, when a vowel follows or when an h is placed before a vowel; as do tēadān, to your countenance; or visage; do tḡājje, to your prophet. After all other Prepositions, the o remains alwayes unalter'd; as ar do lājim, ar do lājim, ōḡ do lājim, tar do lājim, &c. There is no alteration of do in the plural, but as you may see above. And a, ar & van, bu are also varied no other way, having a regard to the Noun that follows according to the foregoing Rules. All the rest of the Pronouns are of the third Declension, and so remain unchangable in all the Cases. The Antient Irish Grammarians allowed of no Declension of Pronouns; but teaching still, that no Pronoun could be declined; whereas they themselves in their writings, made use of the Numbers & Cases of Pronouns. The changing of the Pronoun is soon understood by the variation of the Substantive to which it is joy-ned; but the learner shall first know, whether that Substantive be Masculine or Feminine: for if Masculine, the initial of the Substantive, if it be a mutable consonant, shall be aspirated; and if it be Feminine, it shall be pronounced in its proper sound; as a cluar, his ear; a cluar, her ear. The encrease of Pronouns additional to Sub-stantives, is alwayes to be made use of in the Irish, when any great Determination, or Demonstration of a person is required, or when any thing is particularly attributed to that person, more than to others.

THE NINTH CHAPTER.

Ἀν νλωμαδ̄ Cαιβρ̄ολ.

THere are three sorts of verbs, the one Active, call'd br̄iatar̄ oib̄r̄īz̄ - te, as buail̄m, I strike; Passive called br̄iatar̄ īfulān̄z̄, nó nēm̄n̄r̄z̄ne, as buail̄tear̄ é, let him be struck; and a Verb Neuter call'd pēar̄rā n̄r̄z̄ne, as r̄r̄z̄m, I sit, or I am seated.

A verb has these five accidents, viz. person, Number, tense or time, Mood, Conjugation, called by the Irish, pēar̄rā, r̄m̄n̄, am̄ nō ām̄rēar̄, mōd̄, āz̄ar̄ nēm̄n̄z̄hād̄. A Person is of three kinds in each N̄mber, as in the singular I, you, he, m̄é, τ̄ύ, é; in the plural, as we, ye, they, j̄n̄ nō r̄j̄n̄, j̄nē nō r̄j̄nē, jād̄ nó r̄jād̄. The Numbers are two, viz. the singular called uātād̄; and the plural, call'd jol̄rād̄: The tenses are three, viz. the present tense, call'd ā̄m̄l̄ā̄r̄nēac̄; the preter or preterperfect tense, call'd dēj̄m̄n̄z̄hād̄ and the future tense, called r̄ā̄r̄r̄z̄nē. The moods are six, viz. The Indicative, call'd rōj̄ll̄r̄z̄hād̄; the Imperative, call'd r̄ul̄ā̄r̄nēam̄; the Potential, call'd cōmār̄ac̄; the Deprecative, call'd π̄c̄ē, the Accustomary, call'd in Latin Modus consuetudinalis, call'd by the Irish lēj̄t̄dēj̄m̄n̄z̄hād̄; and the Conjunctive call'd r̄r̄z̄j̄ūz̄hād̄. To which some add the seventh, call'd Relative, by the Irish mōd̄ jāol̄mān̄. But this Relative, and also the Conjunctive Mood, rare ather incident, or superven-nient Moods to other Moods, and so Moods of moods, than principal Moods, of themselves; as we shall Note hereafter, where we will likewise shew why no mention is made of the Infinitive Mood. The Inflection of a verb by those Moods, tenses, Numbers, and Persons, is call'd Conjugation; as the Inflection of Nouns by its Cases, is call'd Declension.

Some Verbs are conjugated regularly, some irregularly. All verbs regular & irregular, has j̄m pure, or mixt, in the present tense; and ār̄ pure, or mixt, in the pretertense of the Indicative Mood; that is, in the first person of the singular number, as zon̄am̄, I wound; r̄z̄r̄j̄obām̄, I write; buail̄m, I strike. Do zon̄ar̄, I wounded; do r̄z̄r̄j̄obār̄, I writ; do buail̄ear̄, I struck. Regular Verbs in the future tense, are terminated with the syllable rād̄, or rēad̄, or ad̄. As zon̄rād̄, I will wound; er̄r̄rēad̄, I will put; r̄z̄r̄j̄bēōz̄ad̄, I will write. j̄mēōrād̄, I will play; j̄nēōrād̄, I will tell. Such Verbs as end in ad̄, have alwayes their last syllables but one long.

In the Conjugation of Verbs, a Negative much alters the termination from what it was when affirmative; and therefore to every affirmative, a negative ought to be put in the Conjugation; especially when they are dissonant in themselves, as rād̄ makes ab̄ in the negative, as zon̄rād̄, n̄j̄ zon̄ab̄; rēad̄ makes eāb̄, as er̄r̄rēad̄, n̄j̄ er̄rēab̄. But ad̄ is utterly cast out, in some as j̄nēōrād̄, n̄j̄ j̄nēōr̄; j̄mēōrād̄, n̄j̄ j̄mēōr̄, &c.

The Irish Grammarians used ten Negatives, as in the following Irish Verse.

*Nēam̄ āz̄r̄rān̄, am̄ āz̄r̄rēar̄, é, dō, d̄j̄
n̄j̄ hōr̄d̄ d̄j̄nēar̄,
j̄n̄z̄, m̄j̄, n̄j̄; n̄j̄ mōd̄ cēj̄l̄zē. dēj̄ nōj̄ul̄r̄dē nā z̄lōj̄dēj̄zē.*

THE IRISH GRAMMAR.

These Negatives are all to be joyed to Nouns Affirmatives, except ní alone. And when so joyn'd, they alter the whole sense, as :

uaíal ,	generous.
trátaimhí ,	timely.
náíneac ,	bashfull.
clóin .	mild.
deímhí ,	certain.
mínte ,	mannerly.
meaí ,	regard.
gnátaí ,	constant.
íeun ,	luck.

neamuaíal ,	ungenerous.
antrátaimhí ,	untimely.
amnáíneac ,	shameless.
eaíclóin ,	rough, or course.
édeímhí ,	uncertain.
domínte ,	unapt to be taught.
dímeaí ,	disregard.
iongnátaí ,	inconstant seldom.
mííean ,	misfortune, bad luck.

The Negative ní has three divers significations; first when it is a Negative, it is written ní; When it signifies res a thing, it is written ní, as ní maí an nííe, this thing is not good; and when it signifies to act, or do, it is written gní, as ní maí do gnííe íe obaí, he doth not work well. And tho' most of our modern writters do not observe this difference of writing the word ní, it is necessary to know the sense by the Orthography, which otherwise is left in darkness to the Reader.

Divers Verbs being Anomalous or Hetroclites, are so variously formed in this Language, that there can be no Rules proposed, nor other directions recommended, than the authority of approved writers: & the Conjugations, even of the regular Verbs, are so many, & so various, that nothing but long time, experience, and labour, could reduce them to certain heads, or Classes. Yet here I shall follow one, or two Verbs, that by their Conjugations, the rest may be learn'd & varied the easier; and shall likewise add the Negative to the Affirmative, where they differ.

EXAMPLE.

Indicative Mood, present tense. Of vulnero, gonaím.

gnííe uatad.	an íe ad íe aííe: gonaím , I wound.
	ní gonaím , I wound not.
	an dapa íe aííe: gonaím , thou woundest.
	ní gonaím , thou woundest not.
	an íe aííe íe aííe: gonaím , he wounds.
	ní gonaím , he wounds not.

gnííe íolhaí.	1. íe aííe: gonaím , no gonaím.
	gnííe íolhaí , we wound, ní gonaím , we wound not.
	2. íe aííe: gonaím , ye wound, ní gonaím , ye wound not.
	3. íe aííe: gonaím , they wound, ní gonaím , they wound not.

Another Example in the same mood, and tense, of the Verb scribo, I write; and because its Negatives are like the affirmatives; I shall omit to insert them here.

gnííe uatad.	gnííe íolhaí.
1. íe aííe: ííííe , I write.	1. p. ííííe íolhaí , we write.
2. p. ííííe íolhaí , you write.	2. p. ííííe íolhaí íe , ye write.
3. p. ííííe íolhaí , he writes.	3. p. ííííe íolhaí íe , they write.

The pretertense of the Indicative mood, which in the Irish is call'd lāim de jmhjū-ḡad, is as followeth.

ḡimjū ratad.	ḡimjū jolnad.
1. pe ar: do ḡonay , I wounded.	1. pe ar: do ḡona- mur , do ḡon- gam , We Woun- ded.
2. pe ar: do ḡonayy , you wounded.	2. pe ar: do ḡana- bayn , ye Woun- ded.
3. pe ar: do ḡojn , do ḡonayd , he wounded.	3. pe ar: do ḡona- dyr do ḡonayd , they wounded.

The first and second person of this tense, differ onely in that the first person has alwayes its last vowel broad, and the second small, as do ḡonay, I wounded; do ḡonayy, you wounded.

ḡimjū ratad.	ḡimjū jolnad.
1. pe ar: do ḡrjō- bay , I writt.	1. pe ar: do ḡrjō- bamay , We have written.
2. pe ar: do ḡrjō- bayy , you writt.	2. pe ar: do ḡrjō- babayn , ye have Written.
3. pe ar: do ḡrjōb , he writt.	3. pe ar: do ḡrjō- badayn , they have Written.

In the Future tense of the Indicative Mood; the Negatives and Affirmatives are all alike, except in the first person plural, & sometimes in the first person singular, therefore I shall sett down the Negatives in the following Example.

ḡimjū ratad.
1. pe ar: ḡonayd , I shall, or will wound.

nj ḡonab, I shall not wound.

2. pe ar: ḡonaydty, you shall or will wound. nj ḡonaydty, you shall not wound.
3. pe ar: ḡonayd, he shall, or will wound. nj ḡonayd, he shall not wound.

ḡimjū jolnad.

1. pe ar: ḡonayamloyd, we shall wound. nj ḡonayamloyd, we shall not wound.
2. pe ar: ḡonaydye, ye shall wound. nj ḡonaydye, ye shall not wound.
3. pe ar: ḡonaydy, they shall wound. nj ḡonaydy, they shall not wound.

ḡimjū uatad.

1. pe ar: ḡrjōbeyd, I shall write. nj ḡrjōbeyd, I shall not write.
2. pe ar: ḡrjōbeyy, you shall write. nj ḡrjōbeyy, you shall not write.
3. pe ar: ḡrjōbeyd, he shall write, nj ḡrjōbeyd, he shall not write.

ḡimjū jolnad.

1. pe ar: ḡrjōbeyaymne, we shall write. nj ḡrjōbeyaymne, we shall not write.
2. pe ar: ḡrjōbeydy rjōb, ye shall write. nj ḡrjōbeydy rjōb, ye shall not write.
3. pe ar: ḡrjōbeydy, they shall write. nj ḡrjōbeydy, they shall not write.

When a Relative is either express'd, or understood, the third person singular of the present tense Indicative Mood, terminates in ay or ey; and the third of the future tense of the same Mood in ay or ey, as ay ē ḡonay, its he wounds; ay ē baylayay, its he strikes; ay ē ḡrjōbay, its he writes; future tense ay ē ḡonayay, its he who shall wound;

ar ē buajl̄e ar , its he , vvhō shall strike ;
 ar ē r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄e ar , its he , vvhō shall vwrite ;
 and this not onely in the singular , but also in the plural Number ar m̄j̄e z̄on ar , nō z̄on̄e ar ē , I am he , vvhō vvhounds ,
 or shall vvhound him ; ar r̄j̄e z̄on ar ,
 nō z̄on̄e ar ē , vve are they vvhō vvhound ,
 or shall vvhound him ; for in such manner of speaking the Pronoun of the third person is understood as the supposition of the Verb ; and makes the sēse thus in the latin , ego sum ille , qui vulnerat , vel vulnerabit ; nos sumus illi , qui vulnerant , vel vul-nerabant , &c. And this is the Mood call'd Relative , spoken of in this Chapter. But as we Noted there , it is but a Mood modifying the present , and future tense of the Indicative Mood.

Of the Imperative Mood.

The Negatives of this Mood are like the Affirmatives , and are exp̄s̄d by the Article nā , as z̄on , vvhound thou ;
 nā z̄on , do not vvhound ; buajl , strike thou , nā buajl , do not strike , &c. And therefore to be omitted. The Irish Grammarians do differ from the Latins , who do not allow of the first person singular in this Mood. Example in z̄on ar m̄ , present & future sēse.

ar m̄j̄e r̄at̄aō.	ar m̄j̄e jol̄naō.
1. p : z̄on ar , let me wound.	1. p : z̄on ar m̄ , let us wound.
2. p : z̄on , wound thou.	2. p : z̄on ar j̄ō , wound ye.
3. p : z̄on aō , let him wound.	3. p : z̄on ar j̄ō , nō z̄on ar j̄ō , let them wound.

ar m̄j̄e r̄at̄aō.

1. p : r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄on , I must write.
2. p : r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄ , write thou.
3. p : r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄e aō , let him write.

ar m̄j̄e jol̄naō.

1. p : r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄m̄j̄ō , let us write.
2. p : r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄a j̄ōe ,
write ye.
3. p : r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄a j̄ōj̄r ,
let them write.

The Potential Mood has in all its tenses , the Negatives like the Affirmatives , and so we shall mention the Affirmatives
 onely.

The secoud Example of this Mood , is scribo , r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄a m̄ , I vwrite.

ar m̄j̄e r̄at̄aō.

1. p : do r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄- r̄a j̄n̄ , I Would Write.
2. p : do r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄- r̄aō , you Would Write.
3. p : do r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄r̄aō ,
he Would Write.

ar m̄j̄e jol̄naō.

1. p : do r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄r̄am̄l̄oj̄r , we would Write.
2. p : do r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄- r̄aō r̄j̄ō , ye would Write.
3. p : do r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄r̄aōl̄oj̄r , they would Write.

ar m̄j̄e r̄at̄aō.

1. p : do z̄on r̄a j̄n̄ ,
I Would wound.
2. p : do z̄on r̄aōa ,
you Would
wound.
3. p : do z̄on r̄aō .
he Would wound.

ar m̄j̄e jol̄naō.

1. p : do z̄on r̄am̄l̄oj̄r , we would
wound.
2. p : do z̄on r̄aō
r̄j̄ō , ye would
wound.
3. p : do z̄on r̄aōl̄oj̄r , they would
wound.

The second person plural being wanting in this Mood , it is here circumfscribed by the third person singular , as z̄on r̄aō , r̄z̄m̄j̄b̄r̄aō , and the pronoun

This mood wants the present and pretertense, and has onely the future; its Negatives are like the affirmatives and are commonly express'd by the Article nan; as ʒun ʒonan; nan ʒonan; ʒun ʒnʒbʒn; nan ʒnʒbʒn. The Deprecative Article is of two sorts, viz. bʒn, āʒaʒ ʒo; of which our Grammarians do give this Rule. ʒac peanʒa aʒa mbʒ nān ʒja-ʒnʒʒe alajndeʒmʒnʒʒe, nʒʒ nʒcōʒn ʒun aʒ a hʒʒe. viz All Verbs that have nan, in the Interrogating pretertense, have ʒun in the Deprecative Mood; and such as has an in the said tense, will have ʒun in the Deprecative; as nan buaʒl, did he not strike? ʒun buaʒl that he did strike. An ndeanʒaʒo, did he do? ʒun ndeanʒa, that he did. If the initial letter of the Verb in this Mood be capable of being Eclips'd, or aspirated after the Interrogative an, and the Deprecative ʒun or ʒo, it must be Eclips'd; and after the Interrogative nan, and the Deprecative ʒun, it must be aspirated.

This Mood wants the present & future tense, and has onely the pretertense; it is called le-jtöe-jinnujzav. i. semi-affirmative, or half affirmation, or a Præteritum imperfectum; by reason it doth not positively affirm any thing to have been done and there fore it is called Consuetudinal, or Customary Mood. Its Negatives are like its affirmatives; as to žona-jñ, to ržnjobajñ, nj ržnjobajñ, &c. It wants the second person plural, where we are obliged to have recourse to a circumlocution, by making use of the third person singular, and the pronoun rjb, for the second person plural; as we said of the potential Mood. This Mood is form'd of the potential Mood, by Casting away from such Verbs as have va or veav in the future, the v of the first or third person singular, and of the second person plural, and the va or vj of the second person singular; and of the first, and third person plural.

Of the Conjunctive Mood.

This seems to be but a Mood of Moods, or a Mood accruing to other Moods, as we said in the beginning of this Chapter, and is called γῆζμῶν. i. a Disposition; by which the future tense of the Indicative, and potential mood (in which alone this Mood takes place) are affected by reason of some parts of the speech. And this Disposition is caus'd by the Conjunctions γῆζ, antequam, or before; ῆζ. i. licet, or etsi. i. thō, or although; ῶ. i. if; the Adverb ῆζμῶν, i. if when, or at any time, and sometimes by certain Verbs, the Article ῆζ, or ῆζ, or its negative να, intervening. In the future of the Indicative Mood, it is as followeth. And note that the negatives in this Mood, are like the affirmatives; and therefore omitted.

3. ῆζ γῆζ ῶ ῆζμῶν , before he should wound.	3. ῆζ γῆζ ῶ ῆζμῶν , ῶ , before they could wound
--	---

We only give here an Example of the Conjunction γῆζ, because the rest, as ῆζ, ῶ, and the Adverb ῆζμῶν, with their negations, do after the same Manner with γῆζ, affect their regular Verbs. ῆζμῶν has 2. negations, viz. να, αῖζ να, & γῆζ has none. ῆζμῶν is the negation of ῆζ, or ῆζ; and μῶν the negative of ῶ.

The Reader may enquire here for the Infinitive Mood; and the Irish allow no such; but instead thereof, in the present tense they make use of the plain Verbal noun; as γῆζμῶν ῆζμῶν, I think to rise; γῆζμῶν ῆζμῶν ῶ, I think to strike a man; sometimes the verbal article ῶ, is added to verbal nouns; as ῶ γῆζμῶν ῶ, I thought to kill a man; sometimes the pronominal article importing the person agreeing with the verb, and the thing signified, is joyned to the verbal noun; as ῶ γῆζμῶν ῶ ῶ, I thought to strike you; ῶ γῆζμῶν ῶ, to strike him; ῶ γῆζμῶν ῶ, to strike ye, &c.

In the pretertense they make use of a Circumlocution, by taking the pretertense of the verb with the Article ῆζ or ῆζ, before it; as ῆζμῶν ῆζμῶν, I think he rose; ῆζμῶν ῆζμῶν, I think he said.

The Article ῆζ has for its negation να or να, and ῆζ has να, as ῆζμῶν ῆζμῶν or να ῆζμῶν. And in the future tense they commonly make use of the Article ῆζ, as ῆζμῶν ῆζμῶν, I think he will do it.

The Heroclit in this language, such as ῆζμῶν, I am; ῆζμῶν, I say; ῶ ῆζμῶν,

ῆζμῶν ῶ .	ῆζμῶν ῶ .

2. ῆζ γῆζ ῶ , before you wound.	2. ῆζ γῆζ ῶ , ῆζ , before ye will wound.
3. ῆζ γῆζ ῶ , before he will wound.	3. ῆζ γῆζ ῶ , before they will wound.

he said; or to say; do cjm, I see, &c. are very Numerous. In the forming wherof, the common use, or practice of the Kingdom, or of the distinct Dialects of each Province, is the only Guide & Rule.

The Gerunds call'd by the Irish ojbhjójáð, end in ta or te, as zonta, zonta; buajte, buajte. And it must be put in the Genitive Case, as ehy zonta or zonta, an occasion, or cause, of Wounding, &c. And sometimes the verbal noun in the genitive is taken for it, as ehy zonta, ehy bualað, and that to answer the Gerund in di. To answer the gerund in do, the verbal noun is put with the preposition lé, or ne as, lé toγdōēanay buajð, he shal overcome by silence. And to answer the gerund in dum, it is plac'd absolutely by it self, as zonta, buajte, &c. Or with the particle jñ or jon, before it prefix'd, as jñdēanta; jonzonta, jonbuajte, to be, or fit to be beaten. And sometimes it is done by placing jñ, or jon, before the genitive of the verbal nouns, as jonzonta jñleanamna, &c.

THE TENTH CHAPTER.

Αη δεαcμαð εαjðjyl.

Of the Verb passive, Participle, Preposition, & Conjunction.

THe Verb Passive & Verb impersonal are the same with the Irish, and they call both by the Denomination nejmnyzue, i. e. Without persons, by reason it imports no person by it self, in the Irish language; wherefore it is alwayes accompany'd with Pronouns expressly signifying some person, or other; the Verb it self remaining still the same in both Numbers, as in the following Example.

Present Indicative.
ηmjh raτað.	ηmjh jolnað.
1. p: buajtean me, I am beaten.	1. p: buajtean jñ, we are beaten.
2. p: buajtean tñ, you are beaten.	2. p: buajtean jð, ye are beaten.
3. p: buajtean ē, he is beaten.	3. p: buajtean jað, they are beaten.

Preterite.
ηmjh raτað.	ηmjh jolnað.
1. p: do buajleað me, I was beaten.	1. p: do buajleað jñ, nō jñ, we were beaten.
2. p: do buajleað tñ, you were beaten.	2. p: do buajleað jð, ye were beaten.
3. p: do buajleað ē, he was beaten.	3. p: do buajleað jað, they were beaten.

Future.
ηmjh raτað.	ηmjh jolnað.
1. p: buajljðean me, I will be beaten.	1. p: buajljðean jñ, we will be beaten.
2. p: buajljðean tñ, you will be beaten.	2. p: buajljðean jð, ye will be beaten.
3. p: buajljðean ē, nō j, he, or she will be beaten.	3. p: buajljðean jað, they will be beaten.

The Imperative Mood. Example.

do buar̃l̃j̃de m̃ē; t̃ṽ; ē, n̄o ʃ.	do buar̃l̃j̃de r̃j̃n̄; r̃j̃b̃; jad̃.

The Deprecative Mood.

ʒm̃j̃r vat̃ãd̃.	ʒm̃j̃r jol̃rãd̃.
ʒur̃ ʒontar̃ m̃ē; t̃ṽ, ē, n̄o ʃ.	ʒur̃ ʒontar̃ r̃j̃n̄; r̃j̃b̃; jad̃.	} That we may be woun- ded &c.
ʒur̃ buar̃l̃- tear̃ m̃ē; t̃ṽ, ē, n̄o ʃ.	ʒur̃ buar̃l̃tear̃ j̃n̄, j̃b̃, no jad̃.

The Consuetudinal Mood.

ʒm̃j̃r vat̃ãd̃.	ʒm̃j̃r jol̃rãd̃.
do ʒontar̃j̃m̃ē; t̃ṽ; ē, n̄o ʃ.	do ʒontar̃j̃ r̃j̃n̄; r̃j̃b̃; jad̃.	} I would have been.
do buar̃l̃t̃j̃d̃ m̃ē; t̃ṽ; ē, n̄o ʃ.	do buar̃l̃t̃j̃d̃ j̃n̄; j̃b̃; jad̃.

The Conjunctive Mood.

ʒm̃j̃r vat̃ãd̃.	ʒm̃j̃r jol̃rãd̃.
ʒul̃ ʒontar̃ m̃ē; t̃ṽ; ē, n̄o ʃ.	ʒul̃ ʒontar̃ r̃j̃n̄; r̃j̃b̃; jad̃.	} Before I would have been.
ʒul̃ buar̃l̃t̃j̃d̃ m̃ē; t̃ṽ; ē, n̄o ʃ.	ʒul̃ buar̃l̃t̃j̃d̃ j̃n̄; r̃j̃b̃; jad̃.

For the Infinitive Mood passive, the Irish Grammarians make use of a Verbal Noun with a pronominal Article importing the convenient person to be plac'd before it, as ol̃j̃j̃m do bualãd̃, I am bound to beat you. For the present tense they put ʒur̃, and for the future ʒo, with the preter and future tense; as r̃l̃j̃m ʒur̃ ʒonãd̃, n̄o ʒo n̄ʒontar̃j̃de ar̃, but the consonant following ʒur̃, is not aspirated here; as in the Active; but remains in its own Nature; yet the consonant following ʒo, is Eclips'd, if capable of it, as in the Active.

Note that all Verbs, excepting some few irregular, have the Article do plac'd before them in the preter tense of the Indicative in the potential, and in the Consuetudinal Moods as Do c̃ralãd̃ I heard thō in some Verbs the Article ad̃ is sometimes plac'd, as; ad̃ c̃ualãd̃, I heard. In the Deprecative they have ʒur̃ or ʒo; in the Conjunctive ʒul̃, and others as we said before. In all other Moods & tenses, the Regular Verbs are taken absolutely without any Article.

The antients allow of no participles; but instead of the participle of the present tense in ans, or ens, they make use of a verbal Noun, with the preposition aʒ, as aʒ bualãd̃, beating; aʒ n̄ãd̃, saying; for the participle Active of the preter tense, they likewise use a verbal Noun with the preposition ar̃ or jar̃; as ata dom̃nall ar̃ mbualãd̃, n̄o jar̃ mbualãd̃ eoʒn̄, Daniel is after beating John.

The same is made use of, for the participles passive of the present & preter tense, when the preposition lē, or ō, comes before the Noun, as ata S̃e amur̃ ʒā bualãd̃ le eoʒn̄ James is a beating by John. This participle passive of the preter tense do often end in ē, and most commonly in te, or te, as buarl̃te, struck, or beaten; aḍlajete buried; aḍmjlte, consum'd; aḍmḡte; robbed; &c.

The participle of the future tense, as well
Active, as passive, is express'd by a cir-cumlocution, with the particle aḡtj, nḡ
aḡtj as atājm aḡtj buajlte ḡeamvḡ,
I am going a bout to beat James. You may also take the Genitive Case of the verbal Noun, as atājm aḡtj abualad, &c.
thō most of the antients call'd those participles verbal nouns, not with standing in my opinion there are as many participles in the Irish as in the latin viz, of the presentense, petertense & both future tenses. The participle of the presentense is known by this particle aḡ, coming before it, as from the verb ḡmte aḡ to go, aḡ mte aḡ. going. The participle of the pretertense has generally. ta or ta in the end, as, from ḡ ḡḡmḡobad to write ḡḡmḡobta written, & from ḡ ḡojn
To wound, ḡonta wounded; the participle of the pretertense may also be known or distinguish'd by those particles jaḡ na which signifie the time past, coming before it, as from ḡ ḡmḡbad to kill, jaḡ na ḡmḡbad kill'd or slain. Ex. being kill'd by John, jaḡ na ḡmḡbad lé Sēan.
The participle of the first future tense
is known by these particles lé or jḡ coming before it, as from ḡ ḡḡmḡobad, to write lé ḡḡmḡob, to be writt, from ḡ ḡēanaḡ, to do, jḡḡēanta to be or fit to be done. The participle of the second future tense is generally dislingui-shed by these particles aḡ tj, as, from ḡmte aḡ to go, aḡ tj mte aḡa a bout going.

Of the Adverb. Called jaḡ mbeapla.

An Adverb is a part of peeche, modifying and explaining the signification of the Verb, and sometimes of the Noun,

as buajl ḡolāḡojn, strike strongly, lāj-ojn ḡolōjn strong enough; Adverbs are of different kinds. Some signifie Interrogation .j. ḡjaḡmḡḡe as ane aḡ, is it so?
cāḡ, where? And some are of an answer,
as aḡe aḡ it is so.

Negatives ḡultajde; nḡ he aḡ, nḡ hamla not so.

Confirmation comne aḡtjḡad; de-
mḡn, certainly, ḡjḡmḡeac truely, verily.
Congregation comcḡmḡjḡḡad; maḡlon,
together; aḡḡoc aḡ, with me cējle, along.

Separation de aḡḡte; ḡāḡeac, severally, ḡ cējle, from one another.

Time aḡmḡjn; aḡmḡ, to day, amā-nac, to morrow; aḡojtjḡe aḡ after the morrow; anē, yesterday; aḡoḡ, this night;
aḡējn, last night.

Place āḡ; ḡoḡ, aḡḡo, here; aḡḡojn,
in that place; aḡḡḡ, there; aḡe aḡ,
throughout, aḡ ḡad, all along; aḡ ḡud,
amongst ḡeac nḡojn, by; or through; aḡojn,
from the east; aḡjaḡ from the west.

Order ḡmḡḡḡad; deḡḡ, nḡ taḡ ēḡḡ,
after; ḡāḡeojḡ, finally naḡjaḡḡ, after;
a ḡjḡ, ngain; aḡoḡ, over; aḡall, over hitherward; aḡ nuajjn, at this time.

Numbers ḡmḡe ḡāḡḡ, twice; ḡā tḡj,
thrice; ḡā cēatajn, fourtimes.

Similitude coḡmḡle; amajl, like;
thus; maḡḡud, after that manner.

Demonstration taḡḡe aḡtaḡde, aḡḡo,
here; aḡḡojn, there; aḡḡḡ, there it is.

Quality caḡlde aḡa; ḡo honḡnac,
honourably; ḡo calma valiantly.

Doubtfulness amḡuḡaca; aḡamaḡ,
surely, ḡḡḡ, be Whosoever.

Grief ḡólāḡaḡde; ḡamḡojn, alas; uch;
oh, tḡuaḡ, wretched, maḡḡ, woe.

Quantity ḡḡme amlaḡ; ḡo be aḡ,
little; ḡo mḡn, greatly; ḡḡ lōjn, enough.

There are thre properties of Adverbs, viz. form, figure, and Comparison; the form
or species is either primitive which derives from no other words, as rojn, ryan; or derivative, which takes its origin from another word, as ambladna, jo zeal, jo dub, &c.

All Nouns Adjectives may be made Adverbs, after two manner of wayes: first, by placing the Article jo before them, jo majt, jo holec. And such Adverbs do not precede, but follow the Verb: secondly when they go absolutely before the Verbs, modifying their significations; as ole yuajr, evilly got or il done; majt do njne, well done.

The figure of Adverbs is either simple as jo majt, well; or compound, as no majt, full well. There are some Adverbs that have their Articles alwayes annexed to them, as anjuz, jo deijn an tan. And some others have prepositions after the Nature of Articles, as o cēle, a sun-der; ya cēle, through one another; ne noje, together; an oje, another; and some destitute of both, as uc, majr, &c.

There are many Degrees of Comparison in Adverbs, as in Nouns Adjectives, of which we spoke in the sevent Chapter; the positive call'd molað, no domolað; the augmentative. i. ajbyjozað the Comparative. i. jomarbajð; in Adverbs these are call'd, bnjatari jomarbajð; and the Superlative call'd, ajnojomnað. And this affection is onely proper to such Adverbs as are derived from Nouns Adjectives.

Of the Preposition. i. ne-jmbēapla.

This is a part of speech put before a Noun separately, and governing a Case. The Cases govern'd by a preposition, are the Dative, Accusative, and Ablative;

two govern the Dative, as do, ēv-ze; eleven do govern the Accusative, as yme, noyme, njr, lejr, reaca, trjð, tajnjr, rojn, man, van, azay āri; the Deprecatives which they call ne-jmbēapla an žyðe, are six, and do govern the Ablative Case, as ay, de, uajð, uay, zan, ajze; more over there are four prepositions that govern both the Accusative & Ablative, as an, ylj, ari, jan; of which the three first govern the Ablative Case, where quies, or rest, is signified; to that in all we have 23. prepositions viz. do, ēvze, uajð, noyme, njr, lejr, reaca, trjð, tajnjr, rojn, man, van, an, ay, de, uay, zan, ajze, an, ylj, ari, azay, jan. The prepositions are often chang'd into others of the same signification, for which, take the following Rules: Except man, zan, van, rojn, and the deprecatives ari, azay, jan.

First, before a Noun, ēvze makes jo, as jo byjon, to a man; yme makes ym, um, ya ba na as um fear, about a man; and before the Article an, do makes don, as don bajle, to the Town, &c.

A Conjunction, call'd cojmce-anjal, is that which joyns together the parts of speech, and is of divers kinds: for some are Copulatives as azay, jr, and; for which a single r is sometimes put, joyn'd to the word, and nā not, or nor; joynes the parts of an affirmative preposition; sometimes an Affirmative; as tajnjr loð, āzay domnall jo hējnjr, Hugh & Daniel came into Irland; the Negative, nj tajnjr loð nā domnall jo hējnjr, Hugh nor Daniel came not into Irland. All the rest of the Conjunctions may be justly apply'd to this rule onely.

THE ELEVENTH CHAP.

Ἀν τὸν μαθὲν καὶ βροτὴν Δεῖξ.

Of the Syntaxis called cojinnējn.

Syntax, or Construction, is the due joyning of the parts of speech among themselves, according to the true order of Grammer; and is divided into two parts, viz. Concord called μπαζλὺζαδ. And first of the Concord of the Article an, with a Noun; of a Noun Substantive with a Noun Adjective, of a Pronoun with the Noun; of a Noun with a Verb; & of the Conjunction.

The Article an agrees with a Noun, in Gender, and Case, as an fear, the man; mac an fear, the son of the man; don fear, to the man &c. an bean, the woman; mac na mná, the son of the woman; don mná, to the woman, &c. And it may be joyn'd to all Nouns Substantives, provided it doth not bear, or cause to bear a superfluous Determination of the sense of the word; which superfluous determination is call'd by the Irish Grammarians jomaneyd yuānāta: for which, Note that the signification of a Noun may be determin'd after four wayes; first, by the Article an, which is called tuḷyūnāδ, .j. first Determination, as an fear; secondly by a Pronoun Possessive, which Determination is call'd yūnāδ jnyzne, as mo lám, my hand; thirdly, by a subsequent Genitive Case, which is called yūnāδ tlojōnejmē, as bean fear a man's wife; fourthly by a proper Name which Determination is call'd yūnāδ annabajj-de, as Dannall, Doncāδ.

The Article an ought not to be joyn'd to a Noun that would have any of the foresaid Determinations; for then there would be a superfluous one concurring to determine the same Noun.

Except, first, all Nouns with an emcrease; for in such, several Determinations may concurr together; for tho' it be not well said, an bean an fear; yet, an bean a an fear, is well said. Secondly when a Pronoun Relative is understood in the speech, as τῷ μὲν an Donnall do buail me, for the question may be well put, cia an Donnall, What Daniel? Thirdly except also, when the Genitive Case doth not signifie the possession of the thing, but rather signifieth either the matter, where of it proceeds, as an cupa ójn, the Cup of Gold; an cátlōjn májōe, the Chair of wood: or the Art, office, or employment of one, as jy májt an fear tǵze ē, he is a good house keeper; jy májt an fear tuāz, nó Comájn ē, he is a good hatchet man; or a good Hook's man; as to a noun's concord with another the Adjective & Substantive do agree in gender, number, & Case, as an fear zeal; mac an fear zjl; don fear zeal; bean zeal, mac na mná zjle, don mná zjl. Except in the Genitive, Dative, and Ablative plural; for when the Substantive is in the Dative, or Ablative plural, the Adjective must be of the Nom. plural, as donā, nó, óna fearājb zeala, to, or, from the white men; and when the Substantive is of the Genitive plural, the Adjective must be of the Nom. plural, as me vóna láma mjne, the bigness of the smooth hands. Unless you would have zeala, to be of the Dative and Ablative plural, and mjn, of the Genitive plural.

Two Substantives continued, and belonging to the same thing, do agree in the same Case, as tabair an leabair don lǵajz Donnall, give the Book to the Physician Daniel; also the second, or later Substantive may be put in the Nom. Case thô the former be in an oblique one, as tabair an leabhar don ljarj Searmuir, but the explicative Conjunction eadon, is understood, betwixt ljarj & Searmuir.

As to the concord of pronouns with Nouns, take the following directions. All pronouns of the first Declension, do agree among themselves, as meij domnall, tuir brian, but the first & second person plural, may be attributed to one singular person, for which we have this Rule, cóij rjb, nó rjn do mað le hlon-dhne, as rjbhe adomnaill, rjne bearnard, speaking of my self alone.

When two Nouns of divers Numbers, or Genders, do belong to the same thing, the pronoun must agree with the Noun which is most principal in the speech, tho sometimes by poetical license, it may agree with the other.

The Pronouns of the second Declension are onely alter'd in the Dative Case; yet they agree in Gender, Number, and Case, with Nouns Substantives; and the same we say of Pronouns of the third Declension; excepting the Interrogative Pronouns, which are not often joyn'd to Nouns, but in the Nominative Case alone: but the Interrogative, & its answer, shall agree in the same Case, as cia ne ndubairt? cia ó bhuaigh? uaimhe.

As to the Concord of a Noun with a Verb, it consists in the being of Numbers & persons; and since all Nouns are deemed to be of the third person, a Verb personal in the third person doth perfectly agree with a Noun; for so they agree in Number & person, as tairnj anear, the man is come; tairjadar na rjn the men are come. The Noun with which the Verb is said to agree, must be of the Nom. Case, and it is that to which the Action imported by the Verb is attributed, if it be a Verb Active or Neuter;

but if a Verb passive, it is that into which the Action passeth, or that which suffers.

Although Nouns be deemed of the third person, yet they are sometimes joyn'd in the same Number, and Nom. Case, to other persons besides the third, as anear do bejhe anear rjne, ajrv do bejhe ara ad trompóij, whilst I would be the watchman, & you would be the Trumpeter. tuzamaime na dlojne ója ajrv do tuzabairhe na dlojne ariad cat don naimid, we the young people & you the old gave battle to the Enemy.

If a Verb goeth before many copulated Nouns of the singular Number, that Verb also may be of the singular, as tairnj domnall ajrv Eoij don baile. A Verb following a Relative understood, doth necessarily agree in Number or person with the antecedent of that Relative; for the Antecedent may be of the plural, where as the Verb is of the singular Number, as ar jadro na rjn tairnj don baile, these are the men that came to town. Moreover, it may be of the first, or second person, but the Verb must be alwayes of the third, as ar mije do marb domnall, ar tuir do marb brian.

Any Verb of the third person singular; may be joyn'd to any pronoun in the Nom. of whatsoever Number, or person; but the Verb doth not seem to be otherwise of the third person, than its sound alone, as jonrað me, jonrað tu, jonrað rē, rj rjb, rjad, nó jad; but in all other persons of a Verb Active or Neuter, a pronoun of the same person and Nom. Case, cannot be immediately joyn'd to them. For do marb rjad, is better spoken, than do marbadar rjad, they killed.

Verbs passive do agree with all nouns, and pronouns of what soever Number, or person they be, as jonraim me, tu.

e, &c. ḡontar brían, na ḡin, &c. For such Verbs pass unalter'd through all Numbers and persons, excepting in the pretertense of the Indicative Mood, where such Verbs make ad in the singular, and ad in the plural, as do ḡonad an ḡear; do ḡonad na ḡin.

If Copulatives of divers persons do precede a Verb plural, it must follow the most Noble of them; Note that the first person is more Noble than the rest, and the second more Noble than the third: so, mḡe aḡrḡ tḡa tanḡamar. tḡa aḡrḡ domnall tanḡamar.

As to the Concord of Conjunctions, this onely occurs, that thō ḡḡō & ḡē have the same signification, yet in a speech, they challenge each a separate place; for ḡḡō no ḡḡō, is put before a Noun, whether Substantive or Adjective; as also before a pronoun included in the preposition, as ḡḡō eloc, ḡḡō eḡaḡ, ḡḡō ē, ḡḡō me, ḡḡō leam, ḡḡō lḡō, &c. but. ḡē, is placed before Verbs and Articles, as ḡē ḡraḡ, ḡē tā, ḡē nac maḡt.

THE XII. CHAPTER.

Ḃn dāna Caḡḡḡḡ dēaḡ.

Of the Government of the Article, Noun & Pronoun.

THe Article an governs no Case, but it mortifies, or extinguishes an initial consonant capable of aspiration in all nominatives singular of nouns of the feminine gender that immediatly follow it. Likewise in all genitives singular of the masculine gender, and in all datives singular: as an be an, the woman, an ḡin, of the man, ton ḡin: don mḡḡḡ. likewise the Article an forceth a τ, which is call'd τ ḡuḡarḡa, to be put before all Nouns Masculine in the Nominative sing. beginning from a vowel, or from an ḡ, and in all Datives singular whether the Noun be Masculine, or Feminine, as an tēadan, the face: an tḡḡḡḡ, the Nose; don tḡḡḡḡ, to the bridle. But this Rule, as to the Dative, runs onely in reference to the Letter ḡ.

The Article ḡac mortifies, or extinguishes all Gen. Cases Masculine, of the singular Number, and all Datives of the same number following it, if their initial Letters be capable of Aspiration, as leabair ḡac ḡin, every man's Book; do ḡac mḡḡḡ, to every, or each Woman; & when ḡac makes ḡaca in the Gen. Case, it doth not mortify the Gen. Case following, as ḡle aḡḡac ḡin, each man's spear, or lance.

The verbal Articles do & ad mortifye the Verbs active to which they are joy-ned, as do ḡeḡn, he begot; do buaḡle aḡ; do maḡbaḡ: but not the Verb passive, as do ḡeḡḡḡḡ; do buaḡle ad, &c.

The Interrogative Article an, Eclipseth the initial consonants of such Verbs as do follow it, as an bḡul? is it? an mbḡad, Will it be? But doth not alter the Nouns, as an ḡeal e, is it white? an dub ē, is it black? The Articles anba, nac, nac ba, do not change their following words; but naḡ, nāḡ, nacan, do mortifye the initial consonants of such words as follow, and are capable of being mortify'd, as naḡ maḡt, was it not good? nac an maḡt? was it not good? The Article o, governs a Gen. Case, as o Neḡll, o Domnall, which Gen. the said Article o, mortifies, when it self is of the Gen. Dative, or Ablative singular, but when of the Gen. plural, it eclipseth the following Gen. as ḡḡḡḡḡḡ duad ḡḡḡḡḡḡ, dḡḡḡḡḡḡ, aḡeḡe ḡḡḡḡḡḡ, meḡe ḡmbríajh. In other Cases of the singular Number, the initial consonant is not chang'd; and in the plural, the Nomin. Accusat. Vocat. and Ablative, are not in use; but in the Dative plural, the said Genit. is also mortified, as ḡj, ḡjbríajh.

The Article an adds the aspirative h to all the Cases of the plural Number beginning from a vowel, excepting the Gen. which it Eclipseth, as na haíbhne, the Rivers; na naíbhne, of the Rivers; dona haíbhne to the Rivers. na haíbhne, the Rivers; dona haíbhne, from the Rivers.

As to the Government of Nouns, when two of them, being of divers significations, come together or are joyned in the same sense, the second will be of the Gen. Case, which sometimes, signifyeth the thing possessed, as fear na fallajne deíne, the man of the red mantle or cloak;

And these may be well turn'd, fear do fallajne ndeíne, fear do mbuaíbh, &c. sometimes it signifyeth Art, Trade, Office, or Imployment. or something belonging to it, as fear dāna, a poet; fear íajne, a watchman; fear íjje, an husband man; and sometimes the Matter, or substance out of which the thing was made, as cupān íjaḡ, an earthen Cup; corí oíh, a bowl of Gold, &c.

The Gen. Case of Verbal Nouns, and Gerunds are also govern'd by Nouns Substantives, as fear buaíte, &c.

Verbal Nouns, Gerunds, and Participles, do Govern a Gen. Case.

A noun Substantive in the Nominative Feminine; and in the Dative as well Masculine as Feminine, of the singular Number, mortifies a Noun Adjective joyn'd to it, as likewise the Gen. and Gerunds govern'd by it, as bean ínuama, a sul-len or morose woman; don íjor íeal, to the white man; but the Accusative singular, & the Gen. plural causeth an Eclipsis, as mníbh no bean íjje, a man's wife; na íjean ecalma, of the valiant men.

The Nom. Masculine & the Gen. Feminine of the sing. Number, as also the Nom. Feminine of the plural, neither mortifie nor Eclips the initial consonant of the following Noun; but when they do not encrease, sometimes they cause an aspiration as íjje íjl, na íjje íeala. Sometimes they do not, as doíne íeala. Verbal Nouns, Gerunds, & participles as they are, when they signifie or import an Action, do not change their following initial consonants, in what soever Case they be put, as íaḡad do bualaḡ íjje, I will go to beat a man.

As to the government of Pronouns, the Possessive Pronouns singular, of the first, second, & third person, and of the Masculine Gender, do mortify or extinguish their following initial consonants aspirable, as mo íloídeam, my sword, do íloídeam, your sword; a íloídeam, his sword; but the possessive pronouns sing. of the third person and Feminine gender do not change their following initial, tho aspirable consonants: as íjje íjaḡ, her hair; íeal íje, her head; yet they place the aspirative h before the following word that begins with a vowel, as íje íje her breast; íeal íje, her face. The possessive Pronouns plural do cause an Eclipsis in their following capable words, as íje íje, our share; íje íje, your share; íje íje, their share.

When the Pronoun mo or do, goes before words beginning from a vowel, or from an í preceding a vowel, then m or d (which last may be chang'd into a í) must stick to the beginning of the words, losing their own proper vowel o; and they may be aspirated, or not, as íeal íje, my face; íje íje, my mantle; íeal íje, thy face; íje íje, your mantle.

And it is commonly said, mʰallaing, mʰadan, tʰadan, &c.

THE XIII. CHAPTER.

Ἀν τρεαγ εἰς ὅσον δέαζ.

Of the Government of Verbs, Adverbs, Prepositions and Conjunctions.

ALL Verbs Active do govern after them an Accusative Case, as mʰi-yeaḍ ye-aḥ, I will kill a man; buaḗ-yeaḍ be-aḥ, nō mʰuḍ, I will beat a woman; but not before them, as an be-aḥ mʰi-yeaḍ.

When an Infinitive, either expressly or tacitly follows the Noun, that is to be govern'd by the Verb, then the noun may be put in the Accusat. or in the Nom. Case, as one thinks fit: as ḍo de-aḥ mʰuḍ, nō be-aḥ ḍo mʰaḍaḍ.

A Verb Active do also govern two, or more Accusat. Cases, joyn'd by the Copulative aḗaḡ, nō na, either explicitly, or implicitly, as ḡnaḍaḡm Se-a-muḡ aḗrḡ eoḡn; nʰiḡuḡḡaḍ u-aḡm mac nā iḡḡe-aḥ ḡḡu & nʰiḡḡu, tho they be not Verbs; do govern an Accusat. Case, as aḡ ḡḡu moḡān ē its worth much.

An Accusat. Case govern'd by a Verb, if the Article aḥ, aḗ: or ḡaḗ, doth not intervene, may be aspirated; but if any of them intervenes, it is to be Eclips'd, as mʰi-yeaḍ: ḡḡle-aḍ; mʰi-yeaḍ an bʰi-le-aḍ, yet if the Accusative be like the Nominative Case, and without any of those Articles before it, it may be or not aspirated at pleasure, as mʰi-yeaḍ ḡe-aḥ, nō ḡe-aḥ; but if the Accusative has an Article before it, then it may be Eclips'd or not, as ḡoḡḡaḍ anḡe-aḥ, nō an bʰe-aḥ.

All Participles, Gerunds, Supines and Verbal Nouns, if taken Actively, will require a Gen Case after them, as mʰaḡ-ḍaḍ ḡḡḡ; ḡe-aḥ mʰaḡḗta leomʰaḡn, but if taken passively, then they require either a Nom. Case, or the person to be express'd, as aḡ mʰaḡḗta, nō ḡḡ ḡonmʰaḡ-ta muḡ, aḡa Se-aḍan aḡ na mʰaḡḍaḍ; nō aḗa mʰaḡḍaḍ.

As to the government of Adverbs; some do govern a Gen. Case, as ḡe-aḗ-nōḡn, aḡ ḡuḍ, aḡ ḡaḍ, a bʰoḗaḡḡ; deḡḡ taḡn ēḡḡ, anḍaḡḡ, &c. Whether they signifie time or place; others require a Dative or Ablative Case, not truly govern'd by them; but by a Preposition, as mʰaḡlon, mʰaḡlle, mʰaḡ lon le Se-aḍan; mʰaḡlle le honōḡn. Others do indifferently require either a Nom. or Accusat. Case, as aḗḡo be-aḥ, aḗḡoḡn mʰuḍ, & the rest of the Adverbs do commonly govern no Case.

Five Prepositions do govern the Accusat. Case in both Numbers, as mʰaḡ, ḡaḥ, ḍaḡ; the Deprecative aḡ, which they call mʰembēaḡla na ḡḡde; and ḡoḡḡ signifying universality, or a Collection of all, as mʰaḡ mʰuḍ; mʰaḡ mʰnā; ḡaḥ mʰuḍ; ḡaḥ mʰnā; ḍaḡ lāḡḡ; aḡ-na haḡḡtola; taḡḡaḍan aḡte-aḗ ḡoḡḡ ḡḡoḡ aḗḡḡ mʰuḍ.

This Preposition ḡoḡḡ, not onely governs an Accusat. Case immediately after it, but also after the Conjunction aḗaḡ in both Numbers, as ḡoḡḡ ḡḡoḡ, nō ḡe-aḥ aḗaḡ mʰuḍ; ḡoḡḡ ḡḡḡ aḗḡḡ mʰnā; ḡaḗḍaḍ anēḡḡe-aḡ aḡḡoḡn ḡoḡḡ oḗlaḗ aḗaḡ iḡḡe-aḥ. But when the said Preposition ḡoḡḡ, is taken for inter, then it governs an Accusat. in the singular, and a Dative in the plural, and governs no Case after the Conjunction, as ḡḡḡḡe-aḍ ḡoḡḡ mʰnaḡḍ, ḡoḡḡ mʰnaḡḍ aḗḡḡ ḡḡḡ; ḡoḡḡ ḡe-aḥ aḗḡḡ be-aḥ. All other Prepositions sitions do govern, a Dative, or Ablative Case, in the plural Number, as le fearaí; go fearaí; but in the singular Number, some do govern onely a Dative, or Ablative, some an Accusative, some both.

There are five Prepositions which do not change or alter the initial consonant of the Cases which they govern, viz. aige, éige, mu, le, do, as aige fearaí, éige fearaí, mu fearaí, le fearaí, do fearaí. All the foresaid five Prepositions, excepting the first, & the last, do add the aspirative h to their following words, beginning with a vowel; as go huí, le huí, do huí.

The particles an aige mu, that is, the preposition included in an, whether it imports or signifies motion or rest; as also noime, do Eclips such Cases as they govern, as ab fearaí, ab fearaí, ne b fearaí. This last, is very often plac'd before verbal Nouns, as ne noul, ne tteáir. All other Prepositions do aspirate the initial consonants of the Cases which they govern. As to conjunctions, we said in the foregoing that ful, ge da gion ga, &c. do govern à Conjunctive Mood; as likewise doth geacáin; and the same of gob be, gionor, &c. we said, likewise, that tho' gob and ge be of the same signification; yet gob and gion are placed onely before Nouns, as gob cloí; gion maí; gob olc é, gob mé, gob leam, &c. And ge is onely plac'd before Verbs and Articles, as ge fuair, ge bhuair, ge buair, &c.

THE XIV. CHAPTER.

An ceatnamad Caibíol déaí.

*Of the Antient Characters call'd oíam,
and of the Abbreviations call'd noíamí.*

BEfore Letters were invented, there was formerly in use, an occult manner of writing call'd oíam by the Irish; they gave the several Characters thus invented, Names, as the reader may see in the beginning of the first Chapter. viz. Alm, coll, oíam, &c. And of these occult wayes and Methods there are three sorts, as oíam enlób, so called from the similitude or likeness which the several characters of the same have to branches of trees; for it consists in lines and signs, partly homogeneal, partly Heterogeneal; and in their position and situation, in regard to one principal line, over, under or through which they are drawn. The said principal line serves onely for a Rule, & not for any letter; whose upper part or side, is call'd the left, and the under part, the right. About, over, under & through which line the aforesaid signs or Characters are drawn and fram'd, which do serve instead of consonants, vowels, Diphthongs and Triphthongs. You shall observe, that besides the line drawn from the left to the right, which is the Rule of all the rest, there are several other lines, some straight under the main line, some above it, others drawn through the main line, of which, some are drawn crooked, some straight; as also some certain small Notes or signes, all which do import the Alphabetical Letters, as you see them mark'd. As for the small Notes or signes, one is X, which signifies all Diphthongs and Triphthongs beginning with the vowel e, tho' it is sign'd with an ea onely. The small circl'd like an o, upon the said ruling line, imports the Diphthong oy. The Note representing an hook thus U, on the right side of the ruling line, imports all Diphthongs and Triphthongs beginning with the vowel u, tho' it be mark'd onely with ua. The four lines, of which two are parallel to the ruling line, and the other two a cross them, and are under the said ruling line, do signifie all Dipthongs and Triphthongs begining with the vowel j, thô it be mark'd with ja onely. The eight lines, of which four are parallel to the ruling line, and the other four a cross e'm., and are plac'd on the left side of the ruling line, or above it, do signifie all Dipthongs & Triphthongs begining from the vowel a thô mark'd onely with lo. The small line drawn under, and parallel to the ruling line signifies p.

X x x x

For the better understanding of these Characters it is necessary to get & keep by heart, these following Irish verses; that one may perfectly write, and read this Method, And of this oꝝam alone, I have seen 32. manner of ways for writing the same; but still no other, but such as might be understood well, by these foregoing rules, and by the following verses.

The Irish Antiquaries have preserv'd this oꝝam in particular, as a piece of the greatest value in all their Antiquity. And it was penal for any but those that were sworn Antiquaries either to study or use the same. For in these Characters those sworn Antiquaries wrote all the evil actions and other vicious practices of their Monarchs and great personages both male and female; that it should not be known to any but to themselves and their successors being sworn Antiquaries as aforesd.

2dly. Of the oꝝam coll, or the manner of writing all the vowels, Dipthongs and Triphthongs by the letter C alone, in various ways doubled and turned, as you shall see hereafter. But the consonants must be written in their proper forms & forces, to make out the words in this oꝝam; and it is necessary that the following Irish verses be committed well by heart, by the learner, to enable him to write and read the same.

OF THE ABBREVIATIONS

Commonly us'd by the Irish.

BEfore printing was invented, or introduced, Abbreviations were frequent in all languages, & are partly still continued, especially with the Irish; not onely in M. S. S. but also in their printed Books, from which proceeds the difficulty some have in reading our Books:
but, in my opinion, there is no man that loves knowledge or Antiquity, but ought to take some small pains to learn the Irish for the sake of many valuable treasures hidden in some of their Books now extant. To give an Account of all the Abbreviations in the Language would be an Endless work, yet I shall give the Reader the most usual of them: as herafter.

When any of the five vowels is set over a consonant, it carries the force of n & its own, either before, or after, as

a	e	i	o	u
τ ,	τ ,	τ ,	τ ,	τ ,
τῖα ,	τῖε ,	τῖι ,	τῖο ,	τῖυ .
οῖτᾱη ,	τεῖη ,	τιῖη ,	τοῖη ,	τυῖη .

When the letter n is set over any consonant, it carryeth the force of na, as

n—	n—
ḡḡ ,	τῖτ ,
ḡḡᾱḡ ,	τḡᾱῖ .

When a small γ, thus writtin s, is set over a consonant, it has the force of ear as γ γεᾱη, &c.

But if the γ be doubled thus ss, the n must be doubled also, as ss γεᾱη, &c.

γ

Note that in words of more than one syllable, compounds excepted, all the middle consonants do commonly belong to the precedent vowel, as ταλαῖν thus tal-aiṇ, the Earth.

The double consonant must intirely

follow the precedent vowel, as ḡeall-aiḡ, promise.

Diphthongs & Triphthongs shall never be divided; so you are not to Write, or speake pi an for pian, a pain.
